LOIS VENABLE
and
ELIZABETH SUE WARREN

Behind the scenes of the smooth running school system of Enid are the seven unsung heroes of the Board of Education.

These people have a very special interest in the youth and devote a lot of time to the administration of the schools. The members receive no pay and voluntarily serve in this capacity.

Dave Bucher is president of the board at present while Mike Webber is vice-president. Other members are: Forrest B. Warren, Cleo O. Fisher, Frank W. Marquis, Mrs. Edith Pinkerton, and Mrs. Edith Mayberry.

Those employed to transact business for the board include Martin H. Miller, clerk; and Charles W. Carroll, auditor. Also Paul Edwards serves as attorney. The voters are responsible for electing a treasurer, who is now Henry H. Davis. E. F. Mood is superintendent of buildings and grounds.

The Board of Education is elected by the people of Enid and serves as the governing body of the school system. The term of each member is four years, with half of the board being elected every two years. Running on a non-partisan ticket, they are elected on the same date as the city officials.

DeWitt Waller, superintendent of the Enid schools, is elected by the board, and he is given the responsibility of examining and recommending qualified teachers and employees.

Regular meetings are held the first Monday of each month, with special called meetings held during the month.

The board has been divided into various functioning committees which are: purchasing committee with Forrest Warren as chairman, and Mrs. Edith Pinkerton and Mrs. Edith Mayberry, members. The teachers' committee has Mike Webber as its chairman with members Mrs. Edith Pinkerton and Mrs. Edith Mayberry.

The building and grounds committee is headed by Cleo Fisher with Frank Marquis and Forrest Warren as members. Frank Marquis is chairman of the finance committee along with Mrs. Edith Mayberry and Mike Webber, members. Chairman for the insurance committee is Mike Webber and Mrs. Edith Pinkerton and Cleo Fisher, members.

The custodians' committee is composed of

Executives

By

JO ANN WAGNER

The city of Enid possesses two of the finest educators in the entire nation. Due to the unceasing efforts of Mr. DeWitt Waller, superintendent, we have one of the most efficient and smoothest running school systems there is. And, likewise, due to the untiring energy of Mr. D. Bruce Selby, principal, Enid High School is one of the outstanding high schools in the state.

Well known for his participation in youth activities Mr. Waller takes an active part in all school and civic organizations. A very ardent fan of all the Plainsmen's activities, Mr. Waller is very interested in the sports field. Not only active in civic and state affairs, Mr. Waller also belongs to a number of national organizations. He is recognized as one of the leading educators in Oklahoma.

Enid has received wide commendation in recent years on the reading and correlated activities program of the Elementary Schools to which Mr. Waller has devoted a great amount of time both in directing the program and in conference with educators from recognized schools.

Likewise the Junior High School curriculum under the direction of Mr. Waller has made noticeable academic progress.

The academic efficiency of both the Elementary and the Junior High Schools is readily evident at the high school level, and Enid High School's record for fitting students for efficient service in business or in positions of academic recognition in universities both within the state and in leading institutions of higher learning throughout the United States, is well known.

This seems to bear out the scholarship

Mr. Waller has and wishes to see maintained throughout the schools.

Many numerous duties make Mr. Waller one of the busiest men in Enid. He carries out a school program for fifteen grade schools, two of which are under construction, Emerson Junior High and Longfellow Junior High Schools, and Booker T. Washington, but his modest graciousness and winning smile gives you the feeling that he has all the time in the world just for you.

A graduate of Oklahoma City University, Mr. Waller came to Enid in 1911 as an athletic coach, chemistry and mathematics instructor. Principal of Enid High School from 1915 to 1934 he became superintendent in 1934, the position he now holds.

Mr. Waller has two children, Marilyn and Barbara. He is also very proud of his two grandchildren, David and Doug.

A native Kentuckian, Mr. D. Bruce Selby moved to Oklahoma at a very early age. After graduating from Kingfisher High School in 1918, Mr. Selby came to Enid where he entered Phillips University.

In 1924 Mr. Selby came into the Enid school system to teach science and coach basketball. Four years later he became principal of Longfellow Junior High School, a position he held until 1934 when he became principal of Enid High School.

A member of the State and National Educational Profession for more than twenty-five years, Mr. Selby has just completed his third term on the State Committee of the North Central Association. During the past two years he has attended the North Central Association meeting in Chicago, Illinois, and the National Federation of High School Athletics at Santa Monica, California, and Mobile, Alabama. At the present time he is a member on the Board of Control of the

United Nations Week

By

JO ANN WAGNER

The United Nations was brought closer to the minds and hearts of Enid High School students and fans in half-time ceremonies of the Enid-Classen football game, Friday, October 27.

Amid the excitement and thrills of the game, Mr. Wesley McClanahan, chairman of the United Nations' Week, presented D. Bruce Selby, principal, with a UN flag. The flag containing a United Nations emblem on a blue shield was made and given to the school by the Home Demonstration Clubs of Garfield County and the New Homes Club of Enid. It was brought onto the field by a color guard composed of Vance Air Force Base personnel, while the Bravettes held flags on the sidelines belonging to all nations which belong to the UN.

The Enid High School Band accompanied

Miss Maurine Morrow as she sang, "The Star Spangled Banner," the Enid Legionettes then marching onto the field to show the crowd some of their snappy formations.

Along with the presentation of the United Nations' flag Enid High paid tribute to her four instructors who had been called back into service with the Thunderbirds. They were: Warrant Officer Hardin Wilkerson, former elementary school athletic supervisor and visiting teacher; Lt. Col. O. T. Autry, former American history teacher and line coach; Lt. Col. Harry Hughes, former guidance director; and Lt. Jewell Ridge, former mechanical drawing instructor. These men are now serving their country in Japan.

Chaplain Phillip Green, VAFB, gave a brief prayer for the efforts of the United Nations to close the very impressive ceremonies.

Congratulations

Legionettes

By DONNA BOND and MARY ALICE CALDWELL

"California Here We Come"—yes, that cold October fifth day had finally come, and the Enid Legionettes climbed on board the Rock Island coaches with high hopes of winning honors at their third national convention. Loaded down with baggage and cases, lunches, cameras and magazines, "good-byes" were said for several hours while waiting for two late coaches.

The first stop was El Paso, and it was about 8:30 a.m. when we were going to Juarez, Mexico, and for many it was their first trip out of the U.S. Weary and tired of the intense heat, we played twice for the trains entering El Paso that afternoon. Around midnight our train started west again.

Six-thirty came dreadfully early, but we were in the gracious town of Tucson, Arizona, and a wonderful reception awaited us. A plentiful breakfast was served at the Tucson Legion Hall. Because we hadn't forgotten our purpose in coming, two practices were held at the high school football field, and brother was it hot!

Somehow it was October 8 and Los Angeles, California, came up in the fog about seven in the morning. Taxicabs took us to Chapman College, our living quarters in Hollywood.

Monday morning and this meant one thing—the contest at La Cienega Play-ground. We were fourth of all the junior corps, first in girls corps, and our score was 77.333. The best we could do. Uptown was our next stop, and we played for the many conventioners in a park across from the Biltmore Hotel.

October 10 brought a day of rest and an eight-mile parade. We really did great, feet lifted six inches from ground and arms swinging in snappy precision, and cheers and confetti met the "girls from Oklahoma," as we came to be known.

At the Ambassador Hotel on Thursday, October 12, we performed for the inauguration of Hope Reed, from Oklahoma, who was selected president of the National Auxiliary.

Homeward-bound made everyone feel great, and Friday passed without any stop-overs. A platform of welcoming faces greeted us, and not one regretted leaving California far behind.

The Legionettes went to the American Legion State Convention September 3 and 4 at which time we were voted the official drum corps by the state American Legion Post. We were to represent Oklahoma and the state Legion whenever and wherever our presence would be desired for official appearances.

After we returned from California, we received invitations to play at several functions including two college football games. Given our choice of performances we chose the OU-Nebraska game, November 25, at Norman.

A distinction that the Legionettes have that very few marching organizations can boast of is that they were on a nation-wide hook-up on TV.

Also, at this time the graduating Seniors were presented their pins. Those who wear the Senior pins are: Jody Fowler, Carole Fourier, Erma Dolton, Donna Bond, Mary Alice Caldwell, LaVon Frisk, Mavis Craton, Martha Witt, Jean Raulston, Charlotte Menz.

Football

By JERRY HERZBERG

Although 1950 was not the most glorious year in the history of the Enid Plainsmen eleven, the boys won some impressive victories and never stopped fighting even though the odds against them were heavy. The Plainsmen wound up the season with a mediocre record of four wins and six losses, but four of those losses were by a margin of one touchdown or less.

When O. T. (Scutters) Autry, last year's line coach, marched off with the fighting 45th, Ed Brady put into practice the old saying, "Two heads are better than one," when he enlisted the services of Jim Stroup, former coach at Manitou, Oklahoma, and Paul Geymann, former Topeka, Kansas, mentor.

The opening game witnessed the Elk City Elks, a highly touted class B outfit, go down to defeat, as the Plainsmen's aerial attack gave a 26-13 lead. This game was bitterly contested, but the Enid fans went home confident that this would be another great addition to Enid's football fame. The Enid backfield composed of Chuck Athey, Lowell Harman, Earl Baugher, and Evert Burdick, turned in a great performance. They were greatly aided by the brilliant line play of Don Thomas, Karl Geis, Max Crandall, Steve Champlin, Rodney Holcomb, and Jim Finnegan.

The following week the Plainsmen dumped the Putnam City Pirates 44-0 before some 4,500 screaming Enidites at Plainsmen field. A see-saw first period quarter, which provided no scoring, was the only close canto of the game. With the first play of the second period, Bob Miller intercepted a Putnam pass and went 55 yards for the first Enid marker. Earl Baugher, who was out of the line-up on the first game of the season with a broken wrist, tallied with a 30-yard sprint around left end. Burdick scored the third T.D. just as the gun sounded for the half. The second half showed the aerial attack of the mighty Warriors, as the rest of the scoring was a result of Baugher, Cobb, and Bogert's mighty tosses.

Next, the Warriors journeyed to Norman to open the 1950 Mid-State Conference Tournament. The Bradymen got off to a quick start with Earl Baugher gathering in the opening kickoff and returning it 90 yards for the first T.D. The play of both teams was somewhat ragged, with a total of 13 fumbles and 16 penalties. Enid's second marker came when Baugher tossed a twenty-five yard aerial to Bob Miller. With the minutes ticking out in the first half, Baugher once again tossed a T.D. pass to Jim Finnegan. After moving the ball down to the one-yard, Athey carried it over with the final touchdown bringing the score to 25-13.

Enid fans' hopes for a Mid-State conference title were scattered the following week, when the Shawnee Wolves downed the Plainsmen 14-12 at Shawnee. Being rated the "Game of the Week" by the "Daily Oklahoman" and witnessed by J. T. King, former head coach at E.H.S., the local eleven showed a terrific second half, but could not seem to match that of the Wolves. Both Shawnee's two touchdowns were results of punt returns in the first half of play. Enid tallied with two in the second half as a result of a pass from Cobb to Burdick and a plunge by Burdick. Athey's kicking foot was cold on both occasions, which marked the downfall of the Plainsmen.

Playing without the services of Earl Baugher, who was injured the first play of the Shawnee game, the Plainsmen met Oklahoma City Central on our home grounds. At the half the Plainsmen went to the dressing room with a 6-0 score against them. The third period the eleven showed the power they were capable of producing, as the Plainsmen took it to the three where Lowell Harman plowed over. Athey ran around left end for the extra point. Four plays later the local eleven got their hands on the ball, and once again they took it across, the try for the extra point failed leaving the score at 6-13. The Cardinals came back to tie up the score with a 57-yard run, and later in the fourth quarter scored their game winning T.D. as they left the field with a 19-13 margin.

The following week the Plainsmen journeyed to Oklahoma City with a record of 1 win and 2 defeats in the Mid Conference play. The eleven took their worst defeat of the season as they completely overwhelmed the Plainsmen 55-0. Although they held the Hilltoppers' scoreless the first six minutes of the game and the whole third period, the Plainsmen couldn't hold the Hillers' potent aerial attack.

Having a record of three wins and three defeats the Enid gridders played host to the Ponca City Wildcats. The Plainsmen had trouble getting started the first half as they went to the showers with a 6-0 score in favor of the Wildcats. During halftime the annual crowning of the Queen took place. Carla Wilcox was elected as queen with Marian Adams and Darle Sullivan as attendants. Lowell Harman did the enjoyable crowning. The second half saw the Plainsmen come up with their first touchdown to go in the lead by a 7-6 score, a result of a skirt around left end by Chuck Athey for the extra point. With three minutes left to go in the game and a good outlook for victory for the Plainsmen, the Wildcats drove deep into Enid territory and marched over to go out in front 12-6.

Playing host to the Classen Comets the Plainsmen continued to hang on to their losing streak as the Comets dumped the Plainsmen 40-14. The Comets' big gun was Bobby Donley, a 200-pound fullback, who scored five of Classen's six markers. Six fumbles by the boys in blue and white of which the Comets recovered five, aided their cause. Chuck Athey was leading scorer as he picked up both of Enid's touchdowns. During halftime ceremonies a United Nations flag was presented to Principal D. Bruce Selby by Wesley McClanahan, chairman for United Nations Week.

The unlucky Enidmen lost a heartbreaker to Northeast Vikings at Oklahoma City, November 3. A former Plainsmen, Sam Clark, intercepted an Enid flat pass and raced across for the deciding T.D. in the final seconds of play. The local eleven had been leading on penetrations, but Clark's interception made the final score 20-13 in favor of the Vikings.

The Plainsmen climaxed their uneven season in a blaze of glory by drubbing a tough Perry Maroon team 34-6 at Perry. After a closely contested first period, the Brady boys rolled up touchdown after touchdown and unveiled a T formation play that might foreshadow a big change of pace for next year's squad. Making the touchdowns were Athey, Baugher, and Burdick. Extra points were kicked by Athey and Haskins.

January 27 marked an immortal date for 27 boys who actively participated in the 1950-51 football season, as these boys were awarded letters and jackets. They were Dwayne Abram, Roy Arnold, Chuck Athey, Earl Baugher, Dick Bogert, Evert Burdick, Steve Champlin, Bill Cobb, Max Crandall, Jim Finnegan, Karl Geis, Lowell Harman, Jerry Haskins, Rodney Holcomb, W. D. Jones, John Lamerton, Charles McClure, Glen Painter, Ripper Radcliff, Ray Ruzek, Don Sloan, Don Thomas, Keith Lynn, Charles Purnell, Jim Stafford, Robert Franz.

Managers who did a fine job were: Dean Gibbon, Tom Venable, Gene Cummings, Dennis Ukena, David Hermanski, and Duane Moulton.

When the last of the dust had cleared The Daily Oklahoman announced candidates for All State.

Lowell (Horse) Harman was selected for the North Team to play fullback while Steve Champlin was selected for All Conference Play.

Parents and friends were deeply moved by Memorial Ceremonies

Memorial Assembly

By JEAN RANCK

Upon the hushed audience fell the bugle notes of "To the Colors" as the dedication ceremonies for the Memorial Plaque began on that Thursday morning, October 26.

The notes fell on both young and old ears for directly in front of the veiled plaque sat the friends and relatives of the boys whose names are inscribed in bronze, and crowded close about them stood the students, each eager to hear and see as much of that impressive ceremony as possible.

At the close of Martha Cartwright's bugle solo, D. Bruce Selby, principal, stepped forward to introduce Harry P. Frantz, Jr., Commander of the American Legion Argonne Post No. 4.

Presenting the plaque as a gift from the American Legion, Mr. Frantz said, "The young men whose names are memorialized here would want, I am sure, no stone memorials to them, but their idea would be more of a living memorial which school and plaque certainly are—they would be very pleased I am sure."

Dave Bucher, President of the Board of Education, accepted the plaque on behalf of the school and expressed appreciation to the American Legion for the gift which "emphasizes the hour of the day to us all—for with the conflict in Korea we are faced with the knowledge that these men fought in World War II with the belief that they were fighting a war to end wars, and how wrong they were. Let us dedicate ourselves to keep the faith of these men whose valor gave us the opportunity to keep our "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Then came the students' turn to express their thanks as Marvella Hern, President of the Student Body, spoke, "Each day when we pass this gift we will feel very humble, for it was these men and millions like them who gave us the opportunity to attend this beautiful school."

As the veil was lifted from the plaque and the names shown out clearly, there were many misty eyes of both those who had known and loved the boys and the others who had only heard their names.

It brought a sense of finality to those friends and relatives and a new sense of responsibility to each student who knew that each time he saw the plaque, it would remind him of how much he owed those boys and the others like them, and that he must devote himself more fully each day to becoming a better American.

To Our Heroes

By

CARLA WILCOX

*With pride and heartache did we see you go—
So young, so hopeful and so unafraid,
To risk, to dare, to lengths you could not know
To face a bitter world that war had made.*

*Bravado hid the fears within your heart—
You smiled goodbye as but the youthful can.
Your will to do what had to be your part,
The boy inside you soon became a man.*

*Your courage met the struggles of each hour—
With gallantry you fought that we might live
To save our world from greed and lustful power,
On foreign soil your strong young life to give.*

*We, too, are young, who bring you tribute now
In reverence we acknowledge debt to you—
May Heaven grant us wisdom that, somehow
To your supreme gift we may be true.*

Roger Stoner of KCRC interviews Marvella Hern for the "Junior Junction" program on which she was chosen "A Teen-ager You Should Know."

Marvella Hern and John Dykes talk over their visits to Washington, D.C., and their meetings with President Truman.

Outstanding Citizens

By

MIMI ALMOND and ANN CORRY

Meriting the highest obtainable awards in their respective fields of work for the years 1950-51 have been Marvella Hern, Senior, and John Dykes, Junior.

When Marvella Hern was chosen as one of the girls to go to Girls' Nation because of her outstanding achievement as Governor of Girls' State, she began immediately making plans for that unforgettable week in Washington, D.C., which began with a series of campaigns for the officers of Girls' Nation.

Marvella was elected to run on the Federalist ticket for President of Girls' Nation against the Nationalists. "The girls campaigned all week, and we studied and really lived a national government," smiled Marvella. Wednesday night Marvella was told she had been elected President. This preceded a talk over the Voice of America and followed two campaign speeches she had made earlier over the MBS hookup.

"Meeting President Truman was the greatest thrill of my visit," Marvella readily agreed. During her stay she presented the President a citation for outstanding citizenship and a scroll with all the names of the 1950 citizens of Girls' Nation. She had a 30-minute discussion with President Truman and was presented on the newsreel with him.

While in Washington, D.C., Marvella had dinner with Senator Kerr and with Representative Howard Wilson. She talked with Senator Margret Chase Smith, Understate Secretary Webb, and Secretary of State Johnson. All the girls of Girls' Nation visited Washington's Tomb, and Marvella personally laid a wreath there.

When she returned to Enid, Marvella was greeted with a regular hometown parade and was presented with the Key to the City.

Being President of Girls' Nation it was Marvella's duty to address the National Convention of American Legion Auxiliary in October at San Francisco, California. This was only one speech compared to 98 others made to civic clubs and organizations throughout the state.

Early in 1951 Representative Romang asked Marvella to be a Messenger at the House of Representatives for a week in Oklahoma City.

To top all these achievements Marvella was chosen Teenager You Should Know on the Junior Junction National Radio Program and Teenager of the Month by Paul Whiteman. Her picture and story were published in Senior Prom.

John Dykes, chosen from Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico, was also in Washington as a delegate to the Boy Scouts' Annual Report to the Nation. The top twelve scouts in the United States attended this meeting held February 5-10.

Of all the boys, John was the highest ranking one there. He has reached the top position in scouting, an Eagle Scout, plus five palms he has received for work done above this. On top of that he is an Air Scout and holds the God and Country medal, which is the highest religious award for Boy Scouts—an excellent record for a sixteen-year-old boy to hold.

During his three-day stay in Washington, D.C., John mostly toured the city and visited famous buildings. Of course the highlight was when the scouts met with President Truman for an hour one day and presented him with a scroll telling about the activities of the Boy Scouts of 1950. Along with the excitement of meeting President Truman, John had the privilege of riding on the train to New York with former President Hoover. The boys had a long talk with Mr. Hoover and enjoyed it very much. The last three days were spent in New York City where the boys took part in the celebration of the forty-first birthday of the Boy Scouts of America. As John says, "It was a wonderful six days and a great experience."

In 1943, John began his Scout work, and since then he has held many important offices. Lately he was appointed Honorary Colonel in Governor Murray's staff.

The students of Enid High are immensely proud of the fine work of these two young people. We all know they'll go far in their future careers with their outstanding qualities of leadership.

All School Play

"One Foot In Heaven"

By HAROLD SINGER

Hudson Wilcox did it again with his all-school production of "One Foot in Heaven." This play was one of the finest productions ever presented in E.H.S. and was thoroughly enjoyed by the students and faculty.

The story was about a small town minister and his family, their ordeals and their problems. Rev. Spence, portrayed by Ronald Carlberg, brought his family to the small town of Laketon, Iowa, in the year 1910, to take over the church there. Here the minister and his family found the parsonage and the church in a rundown condition. And as far as the town was concerned there was no hope for improvement. Hope Spence, the Reverend's wife played by Benalea Baker, faced her problems bravely, and won the audience with her wit and bravery. She started right to work in cleaning the parsonage and facing the difficulties of their new life.

Dr. Romer, ably played by Bradley Mc-

Donald, helped the newly settled family a great deal. He showed them their home and told them many things about the town and its people. He also told about the town busy-bodies and about the rich lady of the town, played by Norella Doane.

Some of the trouble suffered by Rev. Spence's family arose when Hartzell Spence, comically portrayed by Jon Lou Mackey, engaged in fisticuffs with Bob Jernigan playing the part of Georgie Digby. Georgie, who was the thoroughly spoiled son of one of the town busy-bodies, blamed everything he did wrong on Hartzell, who finally got tired of putting up with it.

Most of the humor and a great deal of the trouble suffered by the Spence family was instigated by Norella Doane, Rita Adams, Margie Kirkhart, and Carol Deel, who portrayed the busy-bodies of the congregation.

Neal Jones, playing Major Cooper, didn't help the situation any with his constant griping and his prejudiced ideas. He would always short change the Reverend's pay and then he gave it to them in small change instead of bills when they had to keep it in the house overnight before taking it to the bank.

The friends of Hartzell and his sister Eileen, played by Veldena Jones, gave great color and amusement to the family as well as the audience. This high school group was ably portrayed by Earl Jane Whisler, Darrell McGugin, Donna Campbell, Lee Wickline, and Frances Long.

In the end Quinn Brisben, playing Bishop Sherwood, rescued the family from their problems and helped toward restoring peace and friendship throughout the congregation.

Frazer Spence, who was only a baby when the story took place, was supposedly telling it about 25 years later when he was a minister in the same church.

The entire story was told through a system of flashbacks by Philip Stuart, playing the Rev. Fraser Spence, the youngest of the Spence children.

Yes, all the audience seemed to agree that the "uproaring," true-to-life comedy was a complete success.

Sock-Hops

By

Groups of happy yelling students streamed into the south entrance of Enid High School. The final gun had just sounded, ending an exciting football game. The winner of the game wasn't important, but the after-game event of that night started something new in Enid. For the first time in the history of Enid High School, the student body was having a school-sponsored dance.

On the dance floor, instead of the usual array of saddle oxfords, ballets, and loafers, feet were clad in white and colored anklets, loafer sox and bright argyles. This was Enid High School's first sock-hop.

The first sock-hop was a tremendous success and received so much favorable comment that the Student Council voted to have another. These two dances were held in the girls' gym. The dancers checked their shoes as they would check coats at a formal dance, with the Enid students using the big study hall as a check room and the visiting school's students using the rhythmic room as their check room. A speaker system connected to a phonograph played the current hits of the day to furnish music for the dancers.

Not only sponsored by the Student Council the Bravette Pep Club had a lot to do with the sock-hops also. They were the girls who missed all the fun. Their only companions were the hundreds of shoes which filled the desk in the large study hall. While others were having lots of fun listening to the music and dancing, these girls had the privilege of checking all the shoes and being sure that the right shoes were returned to the right owners.

During basketball season two more sock-hops were held. This time, on the basketball court in the Convention Hall. Music was furnished in the same way, but this time the dancers left their shoes wherever they wished, instead of checking them. This was the only difference, though, because the gay light-hearted spirit of teen-agers having fun was there, stronger than ever.

Everyone who had anything to do with the dances thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and are looking forward to many more in the future.

*Congratulations,
Seniors!*

Life in Enid High

By NANCY GREEN

*"What is it that makes a high school great?
And what makes our school really rate?
Not just the teachers, nor subjects taught;
Not just the fame that athletics brought;
Nor this modern building we all enjoy—
The shining equipment that's ours to employ.
No, add to all this what each of us feels
Makes our school run on well-oiled wheels.
What makes us great? We all vote yes
To the Organizations of E.H.S.!"*

*"Saludos, amigos! (Hello to you!)
'Tis La Junta Club we've come to view."*

La Junta, under the sponsorship of Spanish instructor Miss Mildred Montgomery, had a profitable and enjoyable year. Margy Kirkhart was elected President, with Marilyn Minton, Vice-President; Eloise Asfahl, Secretary; Barbara Patterson, Treasurer; and Norella Doane, Reporter. During the term the club studied Spanish customs and life. At one time they even learned how to play Spanish Bingo (or loteria). Of course you've heard their voices at Christmas echoing through the halls with Spanish Christmas carols! It's certain these students have done their best to encourage the Good Neighbor Policy.

*"Let 'er rip!" And then "Let 'er roar!
The peppy Bravettes have plenty and more!"*

Yes, peppy's the word to describe the E.H.S. girls' cheering section. Under the sponsorship of Miss Pat Armould and Miss Miss Lois Haskin, and with a competent executive board consisting of Jean Ranck, President; Joan Gentry, Vice-President; Mimi Almond, Secretary; Ann Corry, Treasurer; and Mary Alice Caldwell, Reporter, the Bravettes of '51 have done a wonderful job of barking their teams and showing that good old school spirit. One of the things they accomplished this year was the selection of new pep-club uniforms—special long-sleeved V-necked white sweaters with big blue E's, navy skirts, and dark shoes. A constitution drawn up by the executive board defined more clearly the purpose of the club and ought to become a tradition in the future. Bravette buses were chartered for two out-of-town games, one to Norman and the other to Oklahoma City for the State Tournament. And the Bravettes owe a big thanks to the wonderful job done by the EHS cheerleaders who led us so enthusiastically at all the games of the year. They are Sydney Rainey, Donna Stephens Davis, Jody Fowler, Beverly Sweatt, Margy Kirkhart, Snooty Eitelman, Mary Lou McCreary, Carol Gifford, and Jody Sanders.

"A famous Roman lawyer is the man they adore—

Yes, the Cicero Club now has the floor!"

This feminine quintet, under the sponsorship of Miss Addie Fromholz, has had a lot of fun this year studying the life and works of Marcus Tullius Cicero, as well as the poetry of Ovid. First and second semester officers were Nancy Green, President and Reporter; Mavis Craton, Secretary and President; Beth Pellow, Treasurer and Secretary; Janis Greer, Vice-President both terms, and Joanna Champlin, Reporter and Treasurer. They held meetings on every other Monday to discuss Roman life and customs, and during the year they all read and reported on Robert N. Wilkin's "The Eternal Lawyer." One of the highlights was the spring picnic held jointly with Les Copians, the French Club.

ently throughout the year. Whenever you needed them, they were always at the desk to help you find what you wanted, keep the library running smoothly, and gain experience for themselves as they worked. The officers for the two semesters were Presidents, Veldena Jones and Virginia Mongold; Vice-Presidents, Barbara Patterson and Rita Adams; Secretaries, Mary Caldwell and Mary Ellen Davis; Treasurers, Virginia Mongold and Maudine Albert; and Reporters, Sally Malone and Carol Coen. With these girls as leaders, the Library Club held meetings, discussed problems, and held one lovely tea that delighted all who attended. Their sponsor was, of course, Miss Jessie Douglas, efficient Enid High librarian.

"Debate and speech and drama—the students will all tell Of contests on and all the fun they had in N.F.L."

The National Forensic League, under the guidance of Director Hudson Wilcox, had a full and busy year, what with six speech tournaments, three plays, several assemblies, and countless individual contests! However the members found time to meet long enough to elect Harold Singer, President; Marvella Hern, Vice-President; Frances Long, Secretary; Jerry Herzberg, Treasurer; and Ronald Carlberg, Reporter. All year long the members eagerly accepted invitations to speak or perform before civic clubs and other audiences, since each public performance meant priceless N.F.L. points. One of the highlights of the year was the riotous N.F.L. party held at the home of Beverly Hillis. After a picnic supper, Dan Dale entertained the students with a couple of skits, and a group of boys gave their hilarious version of "If Men Played Cards As Women Do."

"Parlez-vous Francais?".. "Mais Oui, Mamselle!"

The French Club, Les Copians, is doing mighty well!"

Under the sponsorship of Miss Addie Fromholz, Les Copians held bi-monthly meetings during the year to study French life and customs. Officers for the first semester were President, Carol Deel; Vice-President, Joy Kendrick-Choate; Secretary, Barbara Bell; Treasurer, Mimi Almond; and Reporter, Shirlee Stoll. Second semester a different set of officials were voted in, Shirlee Stoll, President; Carol Deel, Vice-President; Joy Kendrick-Choate, Secretary; Helen Loucks, Treasurer; and Mimi Almond, Reporter. Billie Mitchell and Barbara Bell were Program Chairmen. In the spring Les Copians had a picnic with the Latin club, an event enjoyed by all.

"The history of the Bible is fascinating study, And the things the Bible Club have learned should interest everybody."

Organized and sponsored by George Pratt, the Bible Club of Enid High held meetings in the little Bible building across the street, electing the following officers for the year:

President, Harold Jones; Vice-President, Jim Stafford; Secretary-Treasurer, Jo Ann Stains, and Reporter, Lorna Lingenfelter. Study and discussion of the Bible was their interesting project for the year.

"Who sells you your tickets—takes care of your money?"

Whose sponsor pops jokes that are screamingly funny?"

The Activity Office, naturally—and there's surely no one in school who's not acquainted with the witty remarks of V. O. Marshall. These busy office workers handle the business and finances of the whole school, taking deposits from various organizations, handling the athletic fund, and running all ticket sales. The boys and girls you saw posted at the doors taking tickets at the games were Activity Office workers—and they're the ones who have charge of the reserved-seat ticket board whenever there's a play or other activity. All in all, this office has certainly been one of the hardest-working and most efficient bodies in the whole school.

"The Old Master Painter has nothing on these!"

The members of Palette wield a paint brush with ease!"

With Miss Katharine Bales as their leader, Palette Club completed a full and enjoyable year, including trips, speakers, dinners, parties, and contests. With money earned last year they purchased a new kiln for the department, together with materials for ceramics, glazes, and extra clay. Officers for the

ENID'S DISTRICT DRIVING TEAM

Enid High's Crack Auto Driving Team composed of Larry Allbright, David Selby, Nedra Sue Marquis, and Gloria Breed, with their instructor, Rex Wilson, seated in the car. This team entered the District Meet at Arnett taking fourth place.

They were seen, day after day, along with other Auto Driving students, in rain or shine, dust and wind, driving up and down the streets and highways in and about town, trying to meet the meticulous requirements of Mr. Wilson and the Oklahoma Highway Patrol to get those coveted Drivers' Licenses and a credit in the course.

Girls' State

By Veldena Jones and Nancy Green

"Diary of a 1951 Girls Stater—June 3 to 10."

This cherished journal was discovered among the souvenirs of Enid High School memories. Printed below, it's a first-hand record of the most wonderful week in the lives of five Enid girls: Jo Anne Pendergraft, Marvella Hern, Gloria Fowler, Veldena Jones, and Nancy Green.

"Saturday, June 3—Dear Diary: We're actually here at O.C.W. campus at Chickasha, and one whole day is done. Since we've arrived, we've registered, selected political parties (Boomer or Sooner), moved into our dormitories, met our junior and senior counselors, had a get-acquainted amateur hour—and met at least a hundred new friends! Mrs. Falkenburg says lights out at 10:30—but we're too busy talking to our new room-mates!"

"Tuesday, June 6—Dear Diary: When the people back home see the Girls State photographs they took of us Sunday, they'll never be able to picture all the activities we've been crowding in. Nominating conventions, campaigning, and elections galore! Yesterday the 12 model cities elected officials, with Jo Anne and Gloria selected as commissioners of Grimmer and Bennett cities; Marvella as mayor of Johnson city; Veldena as Short city reporter, and Nancy, treasurer of Holiday city. All four of us Sooners were elected as voting delegates to the state nominating convention, and later at the Boomer convention, our sole Boomer, Marvella, was elected party caucus chairman. And then today the most important thing of all—state elections. Our own Marvella was elected governor to reign over 1950 Girls' State; the first governor ever to come from Enid. Two other Enid girls received coveted state offices: Nancy, State Treasurer, and Jo Anne, Clerk of the Supreme Court. Veldena and Gloria held the appointed positions of Chairman of the State Board of Medical Examiners and Chairman of the State Board of Agriculture respectively. We've learned more in these two days about government and politics and elections than in our entire lives!"

"Thursday, June 8—Dear Diary: How can they pack so much fun and information in each day? Yesterday's inaugural dinner, ceremony, and reception afterward; the thrill of meeting Governor Turner; the song he composed for us; setting up legislature and

Boys' State

By RONALD CARLBERG

Did you happen to pass the Legion Hall about 9 o'clock on the morning of June 10, 1950? If so, you probably saw eleven Enid High School students getting ready to leave for Norman and Oklahoma Boys' State. These boys, Jerry Herzberg, Karl Geis, Rodney Holcomb, Jere Tresner, Harold Singer, George Blumenauer, John Jarboe, Jack Wagner, Ronald Carlberg, Richard Conrady, and Max Dixon, were on their way to the fastest week of their lives. Paul Griffin had been planning to join in the fun and learning, but two days before had laid himself up with a second degree sunburn.

Arriving at Boys' State, the fellows received two T-shirts, the standard garb of all citizens and assignments to the cities where they were to stay. The first afternoon was spent in getting acquainted with the fellows from the other towns, while on a tour of the O.U. campus. That night the boys got their first taste of what Boys' State was going to be. That was when they attended their first "lecture."

Lectures were predominant during the stay there, but they were all so interestingly presented, that while they were a bit of schooling, they hardly seemed dry enough to actually be called lectures.

But the leaders didn't do all the work. Once they had gotten acquainted, the boys started to work. Sunday night they held city party caucuses to choose who were to serve as representatives at the county and state conventions. The group was divided into two parties, the Boomers and the Sooners, and before long those two groups really had the fireworks going.

The next day those conventions were held, and the party slates were chosen along with the state party leaders. These leaders then drew up a platform which was later approved by all the party members.

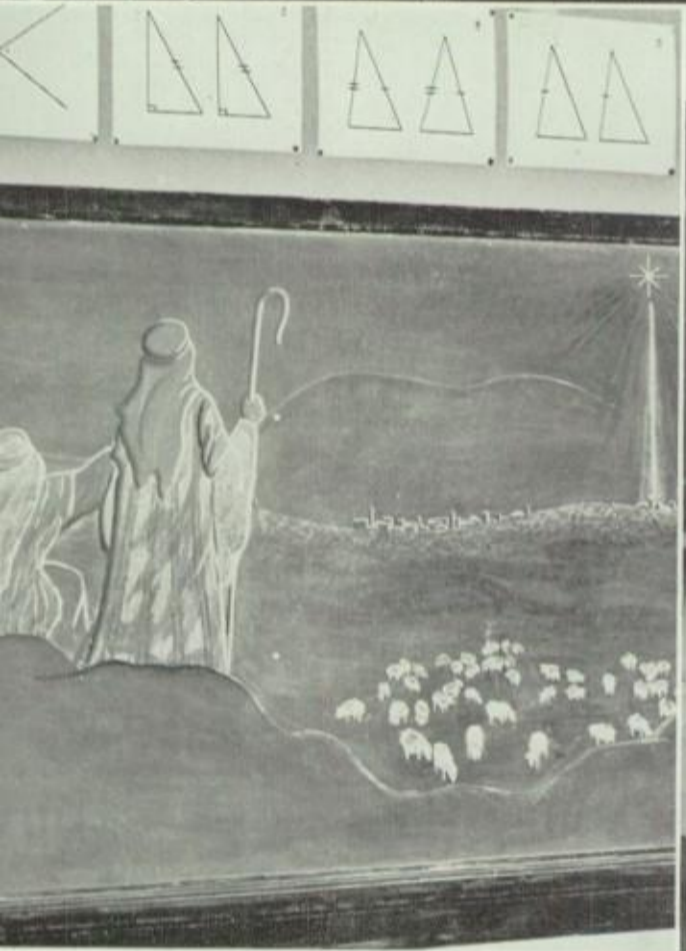

But Wednesday morning was when they really had fun! That was election day, and the boys turned out one hundred per cent to do their part for their party. After voting, they all waited anxiously for the returns.

courts and learning their functions by actual participation—all of this, and we still have time for swimming and tennis and get-togethers in the dorms! P.S. The food here is wonderful; we've all put on pounds."

"Saturday, June 10—Dear Diary: It seems so strange to be home again! They gave us a gala welcome here in Enid—a parade, royal reception, and lots of parties; but all of us are secretly wishing we were back at Girls' State, reliving those last few wonderful days. For instance, that marvelous Girls' State-Boys' State Dance—a perfect climax to a memorable week. Three hundred sixteen Girls' Staters in their fluffiest formals were on hand to greet the eight busloads of Boys' Staters from O.U.—and what an evening! Then there was the picnic the next night, and finally the farewell assembly Saturday

"Time To Sing"

By NANCY GREEN and JO ANN WAGNER

Fall activities began with a whirl when the mixed chorus went to Stillwater to participate in the annual Thanksgiving Festival, November 20. The festival was held in the Field House, it was under the direction of Peter J. Wilhousky, assistant director of music in New York City.

This year has been one of distinct advantages, for the choruses have had a better working set-up than ever before. Formerly the girls' chorus was divided into two sections, meeting at separate times, and the boys' glee club met every other day. Mixed chorus was at an even greater disadvantage, for they met together only at home room period once a week. This year, however, a system has been worked out whereby girls and boys in the mixed chorus met separately every day, and together on Thursday of every week home room and third hour. Moreover the Sophomore, Junior and Senior members of the girls' chorus met combined on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of every week. With this convenient arrangement, considerable progress has been made this year, and everyone was delighted with the new schedule.

Thanksgiving was impressively expressed November 22, by the boys' chorus and the mixed chorus. The boys sang "Old Fashioned Medley" and "America I Love You." The girls then joined in, and the entire mixed chorus sang "God of Our Fathers" and "Grandma's Thanksgiving."

Sunday, December 17, the entire choruses joined to sing in the annual Christmas Vesper program. The boys' chorus sang "Out of The East" and "The Coventry Carol." "Ave Maria," "Susanni" and "The Shepherd's Story" were sung by the girls' chorus. The mixed chorus sang "Twas the Night Before Christmas," "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and "God of Our Fathers."

On December 20, the choruses sang for the Christmas Assembly. Repeating some of the numbers sung at their Christmas program, the mixed chorus also sang "Winter Wonderland" and a group of carols.

On the night before the mixed chorus journeyed to KCRC to tape record a thirty-minute program of Christmas music. The program was presented over the air one week later. After the tape recording, members of the chorus went caroling and then to the Gold Spot Dairy for refreshments.

In March, Mimi Almond, Ronald Carlberg and Bob Phillips went to Oklahoma City to attend the regional meeting of the Music Educators' Association. They were accompanied by Miss Morrow, who represented the elementary music teachers in Oklahoma, Miss Jeannette O'Connor, music instructor at Emerson Junior High, and Miss Olive Bray, Longfellow Junior High School music instructor.

Second semester the choruses settled down, with the holidays over, and commenced work for the Easter assembly, the Alva district contest, the spring musical revue, and, of course, Tri-State Music Festival. The mixed chorus, girls' glee club, and boys' glee club lent their talents to religious background music in the Easter Pageant put on by Hudson Wilcox's speech and drama department. Songs such as "Were You There," "The Holy City," "Open Our Eyes," "Jesus Christ Is Ris'n Today," and "Hallelujah Chorus" added pathos and grandeur to a moving portrayal of the Easter story. Next on the busy agenda was the district music tournament at Alva, attended by the mixed chorus, girls' and boys' glee clubs, boys' quartette, and several soloists. All four chorus groups took superior ratings and flattering comments from the judges, while two out of the four soloists, Ronald Carlberg and Keith Mielke, also received superior ratings. The other soloists, Bob Phillips and Harold Davenport, received ratings of good (or division III). Besides making such a proud showing for Enid High, the choruses had a hilarious time on the bus trips—with the boys the deserving owners of a loving cup which they received for the coveted honor of being the best boys' glee club represented at the contest.

Having taken superior ratings at district contest, the choruses were now eligible to attend the state contests at Norman Friday, April 27. They started out promptly at 5:30 in the morning, and by the end of the day the mixed chorus had won a superior rating, together with the two solo entries, Ronald Carlberg and Keith Mielke, while the boys' and girls' glee clubs had taken an excellent rating.

Since this was the first year in the history of Enid High that any of the choruses have attended district and state contests, it was a double triumph for the 1951 songsters! Since their return the rest of the school has had the opportunity to hear the two numbers that brought them to victory; Fred Waring's arrangement of "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor," taken from Emma Lazarus's poem inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, and the "Echo Song"—with Mimi Almond, Ruth Dwyer, Shirley Wentworth, Gracie Merritt, Donna Bond, Ronald Carlberg, Keith Mielke, and Jon Caton singing the echo part.

Then suddenly it was May 1, and "Time To Sing!" For two years students in chorus looked forward to another musical revue to equal the "Seasons On Parade" of 1949—and this year they got it. Girls' chorus, mixed chorus, boys' glee club, boys' quartette, novelty trios, soloists, ballet dancers—popular songs, classics, songs from Broadway musicals—from a country square dance to a fairy ballet, this program had it all! Everybody's favorite song got in the evening somehow; "Some Enchanted Evening," "Younger Than Springtime," "Anvil Chorus," "Andalucia," "Red River Valley," "Country Style," "The Lost Chord," "Polly-Wolly Doodle,"—and countless others. Was there anyone who didn't enjoy seeing Senior Jo Anne Pendergraft in a knockout glamour outfit, portraying the "dame" while the boys sang "There's Nothin' Like a Dame?" And then, highlighting the evening was the breathlessly lovely "Nutcracker Suite" of Tchaikowsky, sung by the girls' chorus and enacted in beautiful ballet with the stage transformed into all the wonder and magic of fairyland. Good? It was so good they had to give it twice; a special matinee performance for the school children as well as the scheduled evening presentation. Yes, "Time To Sing" left everyone with a happy feeling of contentment, especially the vocal students who had worked on it so hard all year!

Quite an eventful year, but there was still something left—Tri-State. Each year members of the band and chorus compete with bands and choruses from over seven states—and Enid, though not eligible for the sweepstakes this year, made a wonderful showing. This together with participation in graduation and commencement events pretty well wound up the accomplishments of the Enid High chorus, so ably accompanied by Carole Marquis and Helen Mudgett. But there's something that ought to be said to all lovers of music, good and bad; there's one thing you can be sure of—if you're enrolled in chorus, you'll know that it's not just occasionally, but always—"Time To Sing!"

A wonderful climax of the activities of the choruses was their showing at Tri-State. All three, the girls' glee club, the boys' glee club, and the mixed chorus, received superior ratings. Added to this joy were the superior ratings of "The Four Teens," the high school quartet; and the two baritone soloists, Ronald Carlberg and Keith Mielke.

Mid-State Champs

By FRANK GOLEY

Coach Paul Geymann proved his worthiness as a basketball coach his first year at Enid by leading the Plainsmen through a first place title of the tough Mid-State Conference. After easily taking the local Regional Tournament they were set back by Lawton in their first State Tournament game at Oklahoma City.

The Enid cagers opened their season with two overtime thrillers against Guymon and Ponca City respectively. They nudged Guymon 35 to 34 while taking Ponca City 32 to 30. W. D. Jones and Jim Hurd got 10 points in the initial tilt and 14 in the second, while Hurd made 13 during Enid's first game and 14 against Ponca City. Kenneth Young also sparked in the first game, making nine points.

Enid copped the next two non-conference games from Blackwell and Alva to have a perfect record before the Christmas holidays. They took the Maroons 39-31 while swatting the Goldbugs 34-31 at Alva, Jones, Hurd, and Young again came through for Enid in these two tilts. After the holidays came the first Mid-State tournament at Oklahoma City where Ronnie Jabara played the part as hero of their 48-47 victory over Capitol Hill by making the winning field goal in the final seconds of the game. Their first loss of the season came on the semi-finals of that tournament losing to Norman, the winner of the tourney, 35-36.

Next, Enid travelled to Oklahoma City to meet a driving Northeast five, but turned them back with a 45-39 beating. Jones played the leading role of this show with sixteen points.

The second regular season conference game proved to be disastrous for the Plainsmen as the Capitol Hill Redskins overscored them by a ten-point margin, 33-43. Jabara proved to be the only Enidite able to hit for Enid, making twelve points.

The next two conference games were played away with cellar teams, Oklahoma City Central and the Norman Tigers. Jones, Hurd, and Allan Panhorst came through in the Cardinal game to cage them in 55-47. Dub Jones played his hottest game of his high school career in the Tiger game making 24 points to lead the Plainsmen to their 46-40 win.

Hurd and Jones again found themselves hot in the Alva game at Enid overcoming the Goldbugs 54-33.

As Enid met the Classen Comets for the first time in their '50-'51 campaign, they found the Comets a hard fighting five, but managed to rout them 42-40. Jones was high point man for the eighth time of the season, making 18 points.

Enid managed to split their next two Mid-State games, winning over Northeast 50-49 while falling before the Shawnee Wolves 44-54. Jim Hurd was high point man for Enid in both tilts.

In their second clash of the season the Classen Comets again gave Enid a run for their money but finally gave in to the Plainsmen 44-43.

Travelling down to Capitol Hill with a 6 wins and 2 losses conference record, the Geymann crew could not seem to break their jinx of the Redskins and froze up to be crushed 52-29, the worst beating the Enidites had to live down all season.

Plainsmen fans left the Convention Hall happy two nights in a row as their favorite team overcame Central 52-47 while smashing Norman by a larger margin 73-47. Flashy Jimmy Hurd played hero in both tilts making 18 in the Cardinal game and setting an all-time record for Enid cagers in the Tiger tilt by making 36 points.

Captain Dub Jones and John Jarboe for Enid and Ponca City respectively tied for high honors in Enid's next home game, making 21 points apiece, but the other Plainsmen came through to give Enid their fifteenth win, 52-39.

As Enid and Shawnee met for thier last Mid-State game, they found themselves tied for first place, both having an 8-3 record. Before an excited crowd of 3,200 persons the Plainsmen roped in the Wolves to cop the Mid-State crown for the first time in ten years, 54-40. As they had done practically all through the Plainsmen season, court twins Jim Hurd and Dub Jones found themselves again playing high point men though fighting Steve Champlin took the majority of the balls from the backboards while adding nine points to the Plainsmen total.

The last victim of the Enid Cagers in regular season play was a fighting Blackwell Maroon five, who finally gave in to the larger school, 45-25.

Enid whisked through the Regional Tournament easily taking Perry 48-31, Woodward by the largest margin of this year, 67-27, and romped over Guymon in the finals 59-30. The Plainsmen averaged 58 points in these three games while their opponents could only average a little over 29 points.

Because of their first place title in the Mid-State conference and their large marginal wins in their Regional Tourney the Plainsmen were put up to cop the State Tournament at Oklahoma City. But the last game of the Plainsmen season found them a little on the cool side while meeting a hustling Lawton five who were hotter than an oven. Although Enid led throughout the entire first three quarters, they slacked up slightly in the last quarter to lose their chances of entering the semi-finals, 44-43.

But the '50-'51 version of the Enid High basketball teams showed off one of the best records in the state with 20 wins and 5 setbacks.

Individual honors flew Plainsmen way as W. D. Jones, who made better than 40 per cent of his field goals, made the Oklahoma All-State team and also the All-Tournament team at Oklahoma City while Jim Hurd made alternate for the All-Staters.

Boys who lettered for cage play were Jim Hurd, W. D. Jones, Ronnie Jabara, Kenneth Young, Gene Torbett, and John Jarboe, earning letters for the second year while Steve Champlin, Gene Andruss, Allan Panhorst, Leroy Coppock, and Bill Weldon received letters for one year of play. Managers earning letters were Franklin Cooper, Frank Goley, and Gerald Unruh.

The "B" teamers proved themselves almost as successful as the "A" squad as the Sophomore and Junior crew had a 19-6 seasonal record. Tutored by another Aggie graduate, James Stroup, they managed to win seven out of ten games from Mid-State "B" teams. ## Intramurals

Girls' Intramural Sports

By JEAN RANCK

The championships of the girls' intramural tournaments went to Shirley Holt's basketball team and Betty Daniels' volleyball team. The girls on Shirley's team were: Mildred Campbell, Joanna Champlin, Meme Cromwell, Betty Daniels, Ruth Ann Dyer, and Mary Towell. Ellen Bennett, Rose Mary Calivas, Dorothy Coonfield, Joy Cox, Marilyn Phillips, and Ima June Poplin made up Betty's team.

The GAA (Girls' Athletic Association), a new organization this year, sponsored these tournaments. Joanna Champlin, Joy Cox, Cleta Hardesty, Reta Hardesty, Marguerite Harmon, Edith Hirst, Mary Simerley, Beverly Sowle and Shirley White are the members who did all the officiating at the games and kept the scores. Besides this they awarded each girl on the winning teams a small bronze medal.

All tournament games were played after school from 3:45 to 5 o'clock. The volleyball tournament was held during November and December, then basketball in January and February while badminton and table tennis were played in April and May.

An All-Star basketball team consisting of Joyce Bailey, Joy Cox, Mary Coonrod, Cleta Hardesty, Reta Hardesty, Barbra Hutcherson, Doris Lebow and Mary Simerley, was chosen at the end of the tournament by all the girls who participated in it. The All-Stars played Shirley Holt's Champions in a post-season game to defeat them by one slim point.

The basketball tournament was played off by elimination and consolation with Joy Cox's team as consolation winners. Volleyball was a round-robin tournament with each team playing every other team.

The Volleyball teams from the second hour gym class consisted of Sue Alexander, Rita Ewing, Dorothy Frech, Pat Hildabrand, Barbara Merriman, Mary Simerley, Beverly Sowle and Donna Thomas as captain; on Shirley Holtzen's were Patty Clements, Kay Davenport, Helen Krey, Darla Lee, Nedra Marquis, Rose Marie Morris, Betty Reinhardt and Shirley Smith.

Girls on the third hour team were Yvonne Craton, Peggy Cravens, Barbara Funk, Lois

Boys' Intramural Basketball

By STEVE CHAMPLIN

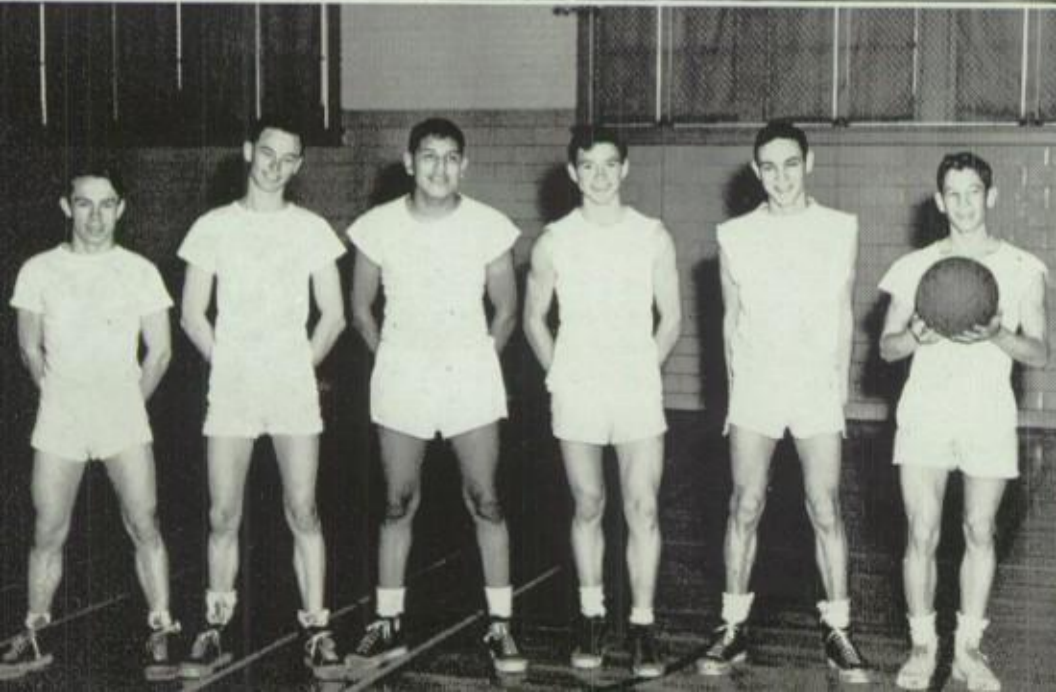

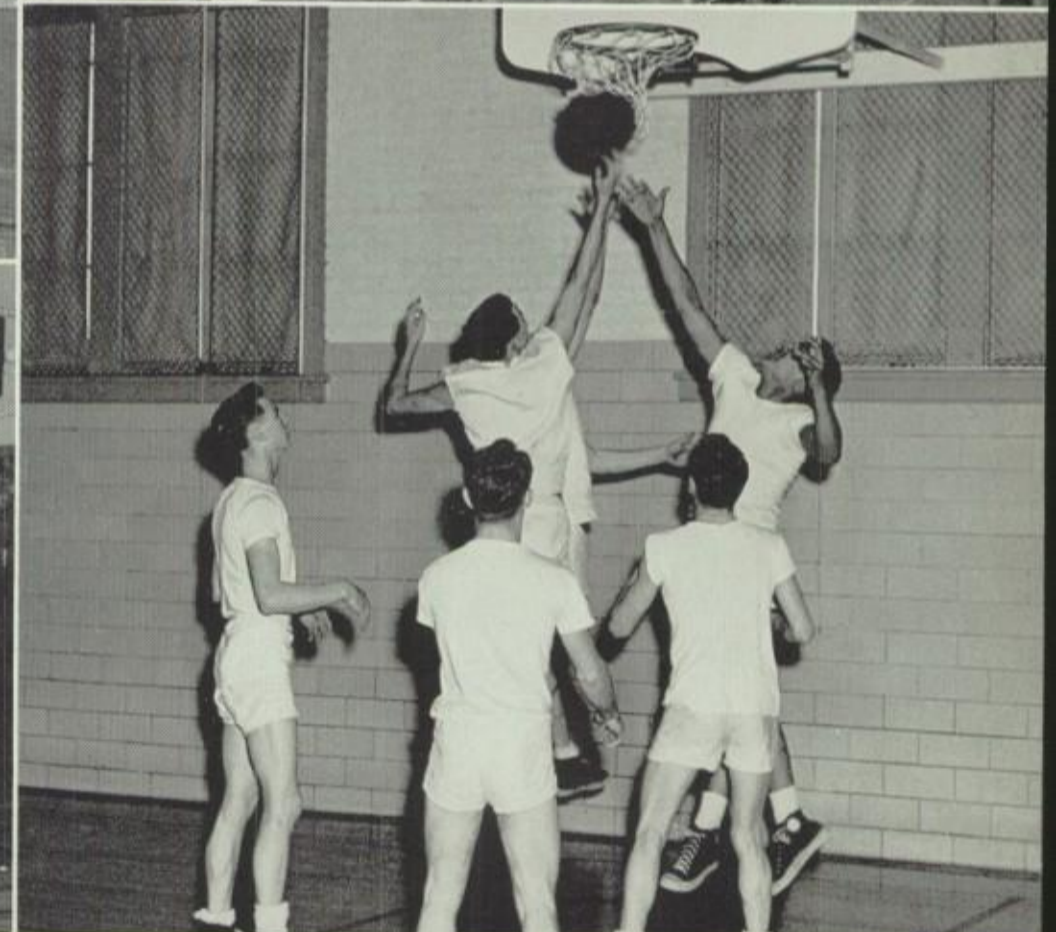

This year marked the first year in Enid High School history that there has been such active participation and interest in the intramural basketball program.

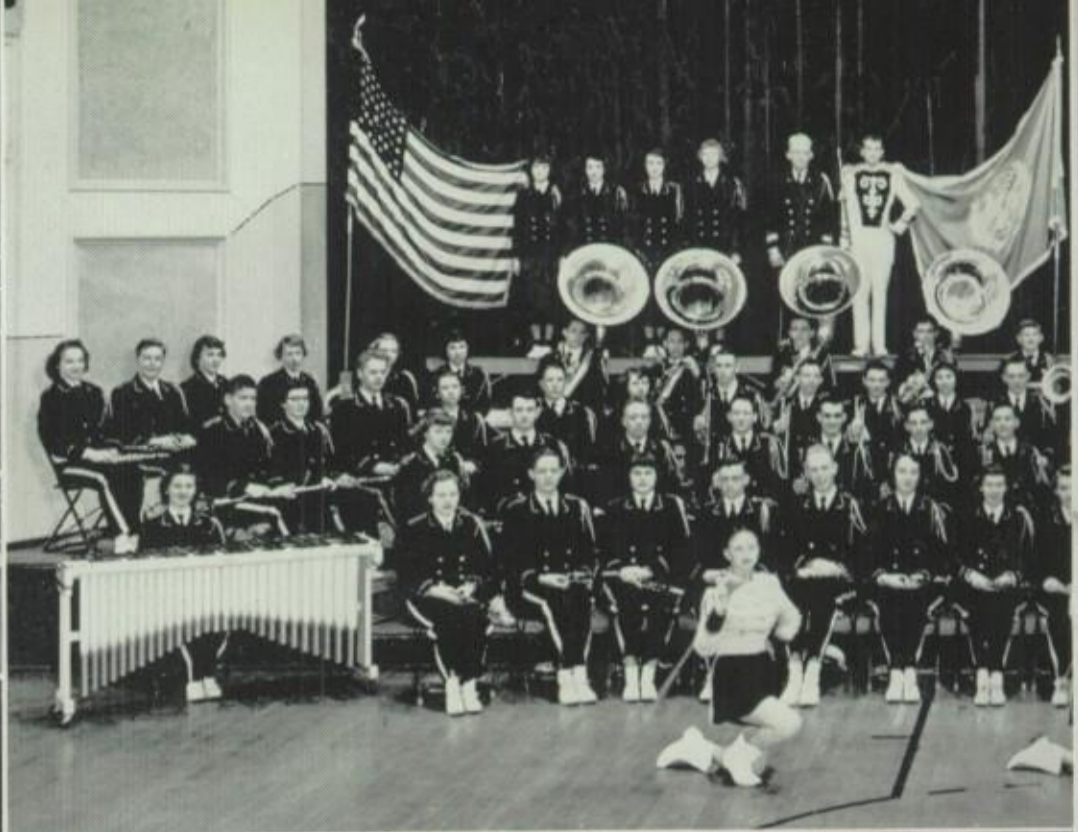

Boys who are not talented enough or do not have time enough for varsity basketball showed that they can play just as good a brand of basketball as those fortunate enough to represent Enid High in the Mid-State competition. As is true in many cases, some boys are good enough, but they have to work and cannot devote the time to playing for the E. Plainsmen.

The program this year was under the direction of John Provost, the likeable baseball coach, who is known and respected by all students. The success of this year's program was due, most likely, to Mr. Provost's devoted interest and attention.

This year's competition was run off in the form of a double elimination tournament, which proved to be a most satisfactory and

"Symphony, Song and Swing"

By LOIS VENABLE and ELIZABETH WARREN

To start the school year off with a bang, the Enid High School Band under the direction of G. R. Bonham, started marching practice a week before the 1950-51 school session began, in preparation for the early football season.

* * *

Those chosen as officers of the band were: Calvin Foster, President; Russell Biby, Vice-President; Marvella Hern, Secretary; Bob Hayward, Treasurer; Gary Shavey, Reporter; and Jerry Hooley, Property Manager.

Gene Kirkham was selected as Drum Major while Marvella Hern was chosen Band Queen. These two led the band when they performed at the football games and during the stunts at the half-times.

* * *

Not only did the band put on a variety of exhibitions at the football games, but they also played during the entire basketball season.

Too, the organization took part in the opening of the Central Airlines at Woodring Airport.

A few students were selected as members of the All-State Band. They journeyed to Stillwater A. and M. College where they took part in the Red and Blue bands and in the annual concert. Those chosen were: Lolita Knaus, flutist; Lois Venable, oboist; Elizabeth Warren, clarinetist; and Helen Calivas, percussionist. Those pupils who did not actually participate in the Phillips University Band Clinic in Enid, were spectators at the main events.

* * *

When time for the Christmas Parade rolled around, the band marched—led by Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus (Russell Biby and Marvella Hern incognito).

* * *

On February 16 the annual "Symphony, Song, and Swing" was presented by the band at the Education Building. One of the numbers of the program was "Tournament of Trumpets" which featured a cornet quartet composed of Gary Shavey, Calvin Foster, Bill Shore, and Truman Netherton. Joe Thurlow, Phillips University student, directed the band in this number.

* * *

Other attractions were "Clarinet Polka," "Tennessee Waltz" with Keith Mielke as vocal soloist. On the more serious side, "Universal Judgment" was directed by Milburn Carey, director of the Phillips University band. Ronald Carlberg sang "The Nation's Prayer" accompanied by the band. Then the long awaited moment came—the winner of "The Thing" contest was announced. While the band played, scenes were shown depicting the different verses of the song.

* * *

On April 6, the annual All-City Concert was held, with grade school rhythm bands, junior high bands and orchestras, and the Enid High School band participating. "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Television March," and "Universal Judgment" were the selections played by the band.

Contest numbers played at the Alva district contest on April 13 were "Television March," "The Secret Marriage," and "Universal Judgment."

Several ensembles and soloists performed, winning excellent and superior while the band achieved the rating of superior in the competition. The band was selected to compete in the state contest which was held in Stillwater.

* * *

Then came the greatest of the year—Tri-State. Not only did the organization enter the marching contest but also the concert contest. Many students took part in the Tri-State massed band while others were selected to be in the Tri-State orchestra.

* * *

The band again used "Television March" and "Universal Judgment" as their contest numbers in the concert section of the Tri-State Band Festival.

* * *

At the marching contest, the bandmen became dancers as they two-stepped to the strains of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," only to change immediately to strict marching routine, playing "Semper Fidelis." From marchers, they became wooden soldiers while playing "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers."

Next a large "A" was formed, and while the air was filled with the music of "God Bless America," attention was focused on the Statue of Liberty in the middle of the field, with its red flare glowing brightly.

* * *

Also, the soloists and ensembles who had previously competed in the district and state contests, again participated in Tri-State.

* * *

A clarinet quartet composed of Max Dixon, Eloise Asfahl, Margie Lowe, and Jean Ann Merritt entered while a flute quartet consisting of Lolita Knaus, Bob Dix, Jean Venable, and Shirley Holt contested.

* * *

The saxophone quartet consisted of Maynard Ewton, Don Bloom, James Dorman, and Marilyn Rempel. A drum quartet representing Enid High had Mac Whitsitt, Leonard Atkinson, Helen Calivas, and Betty Dunn as its members.

* * *

The brass ensemble was made up of Gary Shavey, Mary Cammack, Bob Hayward, Gene Thomas, Bill Shore. Gary Shavey, Truman Netherton, and Bill Shore were in a cornet trio. Soloists were: Lois Venable, Lolita Knaus, and Marilyn Rempel.

Many points were won by the band and individual contestants, but Enid High did not win the sweepstakes award as Enid has been eliminated from winning the sweepstakes award.

* * *

The last event the band marched in was the "Million Dollar Parade" held on Saturday morning, May 12, winding up another successful Tri-State Band Festival.

A highlight of the year was the presentation of letters to all Seniors who had been in band for six semesters. Those receiving this honor were: Russell Biby, Calvin Foster, Roy Smith, Gene Thomas, Bob Hayward, Jim Hitchcock, Jerry Hooley, Gary Shavey, Mac Whitsitt, and Max Dixon.

Also Betty Dunn, Carolyn Pruitt, Lois Venable, Helen Calivas, Marvella Hern, Elizabeth Sue Warren, and Lolita Knaus.

* * *

Almost last but not the least, the band played for the annual May Fete. The traditional marches were presented while the Seniors marched around the lake, and several other numbers were featured by the band.

* * *

To finish up the 1950-51 school year, the band played for the Commencement program, bidding good-bye to the departing Seniors.

Student Council

By JOAN GENTRY and MARVELLA HERN

The Enid High School Student Council, composed of one representative from each home room, the student body officers, and the three class presidents, with the help of their sponsor, Miss Ruth Moore, conveyed the wishes of the student body to the faculty and tried to uphold the standards of the school.

Student Council officers were Marvella Hern, President; Rodney Holcomb, Vice-President; Joan Gentry, Secretary; W. D. Jones, Treasurer; and Mary Alice Caldwell, Reporter.

The 1950-51 Student Council of Enid High had a very successful year. Some of the major activities were: conducting the Americanism programs in the home rooms, sponsoring the reading of the Bible twice a week in home rooms, putting on a student pep assembly, scheduling student assemblies for second semester, and the publishing of the student directory. The Student Council officers arranged the opening for all the formal assemblies throughout the year. The council maintained a bulletin board in the hall announcing all coming important events. With the help of the art classes they displayed the names of all of the out-of-town players along with the Enid Plainsmen team at the basketball games.

This year's Student Council increased the amount of money in their treasury by having concessions at one of the home football games.

The Student Council co-operated with the speech department and arranged for a speakers' bureau from which speakers of various subjects of interest to high school students were presented in the home rooms. There were 200 speeches of this type presented.

In the fall of 1950 Joan Gentry and Bette McGugin were sent to represent the Enid Student Council at a convention of the Southern Association of Student Councils held in Oklahoma City. Later in the year six delegates were sent to Norman to the State Convention of Student Councils. They were: Jack Harris, Barbara Jo Autry, Marvella Hern, Carla Wilcox, Philip Stuart, and Shirley Holt.

Perhaps the greatest achievement of the 1950-51 Student Council was the securing of soc-hops for the Student Body held following the home games.

The last activity of the council was directing the election of next year's class and student body officers. The elections were carried on in a new manner by having the candidates actually campaign for their offices.

A primary election was held in which all candidates nominated were voted upon. The top two candidates for each office then began their campaigns against each other. Gum, candy, and many other treats were given to the average voter in EHS.

Student Body officers elected for next year are: Franklin Cooper, President; Bradley McDonald, Vice-President; Eloise Asfahl, Secretary; Beth Pellow, Treasurer; Margy Kirkhart, Reporter.

Senior Class officers are: Bradley McDonald, President; Chuck Bond, Vice-President; Meme Cromwell, Secretary; Beth Pellow, Treasurer; Joanna Champlin, Reporter.

Congratulations, Seniors!

The Baugher twins, commonly known as Earl and Earlene are opening today their new Barber-Beauty Salon which is located at 1234 Silk Stocking Street, here in Podunk.

"What Next?" Cast And Site Selected

The wide, rolling plains of John Doyle's ranch has been selected as the site for the motion picture "What Next" according to CORN's directors, Ronald Carlberg and Donna Stephens Davis.

"The film is to be centered around the life of Rodney Holcomb, Podunk's famous ivory tickler," exclaimed John Jarboe and Charles Monsees, CORN's co-owners.

The star of the show, impersonating Rodney, is to be Richard Jones, and the heroine is to be portrayed by Virginia Mongold.

Others chosen to have parts in the movie are: Jeane Powell, Harold Price, Sydney Rainey, Wilma Jean Raulston, Homer Rieger, Virginia Nichols, Allen Panhorst, Jerry Paup, Jean Ranck, and Mary Lee Meech.

Costume designer is Sue Stoner, while Jerry Reim, Letitia Sterrett, Jane White, Kathryn Whitley, Roy Smith, and Erlin Trekell are responsible for sound effects.

Class of 1951 Motto:

Mr. Duckett,

I have enjoyed being in your classes this year. I'm sure going to miss you next year but maybe I can get back for a visit. I think you are a great teacher and wish you the best lucks in everything you do.

Mac Skitsitt
"51"

Mr. Duckett,
I've really enjoyed being in your class
this year. I've learned more about biology than I was expected to. I think you are a wonderful teacher and good luck always.
Your friend
Shirley Hall

Hail, Enid

Hail, Enid High School! Noble and strong,
To thee with loyal hearts we raise our song!
Swelling to Heaven loud our praises ring,
Hail, Enid High School! Of thee we sing!

Majesty as a crown rests
Pride, Honor, Glory, Love
Ne'er can thy spirit die,
Hail, Enid High School,

*A new well teacher best wishes and lots of luck in the future.
"51"
Richard Jones*

Mr. Duckett, I have enjoyed being in your Biology class in '51, but I have enjoyed knowing you as a man a fellow can depend on more.

*Best of luck always,
Tom Stewart
"53"*

High School!

*on thy brow;
before thee bow,
by walls decay;
for thee we pray.*

*Hail, Enid High School! Guide of our youth,
Lead thou thy children on to light and truth,
Thee, when death summons us, others shall praise,
Hail, Enid High School, through endless days.*

Junior Class Play

"We Shook The Family Tree"

By RONALD CARLBERG

I think I have never seen any one more excited than the kids who were backstage at the Education Building on the night of February 26. That night was something big for twelve Enid High Juniors, and it was something big for E.H.S. herself, because it marked another first, our first Junior Class Play since before "the fire."

When I walked through the door, the first thing I saw was a pair of boys, Gene Kirkham and Gilbert Ives, working like mad to see that everyone received a program. I didn't pay much attention to them or to the program, though, when I spotted the fifteen lovely young ladies, Earl Jane Whisler, Barbara Patterson, Betty Jo Ball, Edith Regier, Milda Smith, Marcy Lee Rhodes, Carole Feuquay, Shirley White, Mary Lou McCreary, Barbara Blair, Margy Kirkhart, Dorothea Tribble, Darlene Hanks, Benelea Baker, and Shirley Bradley who were serving as ushers, and really doing a bang-up job of helping people find where they were to sit.

Backstage, though, things weren't quite as those I had just seen. Lawrence Neill and Harold Pratt, the electricians, and Norman Duckworth, who held the executive position of curtain boy, were going over some last minute cues for lights and curtain. David Tarpenning, property master, was checking to see that all the props were in place. David had had a lot of help with these properties from Margy Kirkhart, Loy Dale, and Pat Shaver. The sound technician, Laurence Swink, was going over his cue sheet to make sure everything was in order. Just then, I happened to see two girls in the cast all ready to go, and believe me, Fern Davidson and Myrna Shoffner, the make-up technicians, had really done a good job. Brad McDonald was almost chasing himself doing the last-minute jobs a stage manager has to do, and Elaine Durkin was running around in circles finishing up her house managing job. Garlan Braithwaite was working hard to see that his rehearsal assistant's duties were done, and at the same time (as could be expected) was feeding a line to Bob Muir and Gary Babb, who had just completed the stage carpentry work. Then I looked into one of the costume rooms and saw that Joanna Champlin, Loy Dale, and Nancy Usher had been at work to find just the right things for everyone to wear.

But that was enough of backstage for the evening, so I squeezed through all the crew members hard at work, and went back to the audience. Judging by the way the building had filled up, I could easily see that Quinn Brisben and Bill Donnell had done something about advertising the show and that Shirley Holt, Kae Major, and Mary and Margy Gifford had really been working on advance ticket sales.

Before I had made myself comfortable, the curtain opened on Act I, and I saw more results of the hard work that had been done. The set that Bob Myers, Carlan Crawford, Franklin Dorman, Stanley Gregg, Bob Galusha, Bill Shore, and Leonard Atkinson had spent Saturday afternoon setting up looked dandy for the play, and Leonard Atkinson, Bill Shore, Jim Palmer, and Jimmy Williamson had done a grand job of painting the scenery. Mary Lou McCreary and Shirley White spent a lot of time fixing draperies, and from the results, they were well rewarded.

While all these crews were of great importance to the success of the show, the cast did a fine job, too, and I'm not forgetting them.

Quinn Brisben and Carol Coen were the parents of a typical American family, with two charming daughters, Shirley Franks and Jeneal Moots, and two fine sons, Chuck Bond and Ken Noah. But Shirley, as Hildegard, had a habit of getting into trouble. First, she somehow left the impression at school that her father was a drunkard and then with the help of D'Ella Bratcher, a little neighbor girl who liked to play postman, circulated her father's old love letters in the mail boxes throughout the neighborhood. As punishment, her father arranged a date with Jack Harris, his boss's son, who had not yet graduated into long pants. The rest of the play revolved around how to get the long pants, so Jack wouldn't be the laughing stock at the school prom. After much discouragement, Jack finally tried a plan which failed. He stole Chuck's pants and left him stranded wearing just the shorts in a room full of people. The thing that bothered Chuck most was that his girl friend, Rosemary Harms, was in the group, and as he put it, "I hope Ellie Mae forgets about me in those shorts!"

In the middle of all the trouble Ken had to try an invention to get worms out of the ground without digging. It worked and put things in a turmoil but set his young flame, Virginia Kepford, aglow because he was successful.

Then Jack's parents, Mary Jean Hinman

Juniors

By JO ANNE PENDERGRAFT and NANCY TINDLE

Vacation's nearly over, and gee, I'm almost a Senior! It just doesn't seem possible. I think I'll look in the attic for any old books I can use this year. Now, where is my binder? Oh, there it is behind that big box. It sure is in a mess. I guess I forgot to clean it out last spring. Hey, what's this? Why it's an old Quill Weekly, and there's a picture of the Junior Class officers: Paul Russell, President; Lennie Long, Vice-President; Delores Morgan, Treasurer; Melva Dee, Secretary; and Carole Gungoll, Reporter. Let's see, and here on the sports page is a list of the boys who played football. There sure were a lot of Juniors on the teams. Charles McClure, Ripper Radcliff, Don Sloan and Don Thomas were on the A team, and the B team didn't do so badly either, with Leonard Atkinson, Chuck Bond, Glen Bowers, Gary Caldwell, Monte DeBusk, Norman Duckworth, Joe Fishinghawk, Dean Kerss, Charles Phillips, Charles Purnell, Claude Turner, Jon Ruzek, Herman Smith, Bert Weber, Joe Walker, and John Dykes playing on it.

Basketball was just starting then. Those Juniors Gene Andruss, Bill Weldon, and Bert Weber on the A team and Richard Wackerman, Joe Walker, Paul Russell, Vernon Haskins, Richard Havenstrite, and Bill Sturdevant on the B team did a fine job. We should have a swell team for next year.

* * *

I wonder what kind of baseball and track team we'll have. Maybe, I can find a Quill from last spring. Here's one. I don't guess we'll do so badly in those fields either. A lot of Juniors were on the teams. Joe Fishinghawk, Rip Radcliff, Bert Weber, Vernon Haskins, and Richard Wackerman were on the A baseball team; with Claude Turner, Charles Purnell, Jerry Brown, Herman Smith, Jon Ruzek, Gary Caldwell, and Joe Walker on the B team and all these others: Leonard Atkinson, Chuck Bond, Monte DeBusk, Norman Duckworth, Charles McClure, Charles Phillips, Don Sloan, John Dykes, Richard Hampton, Bill Sturdevant, James Sturdevant, Bob Jenkins, Jim Long and Bob Molar out for track.

These Quills are full of news. The Honor

CLASS

Roll is on the inside of this one. As long as I'm looking to see how the Juniors came out, I might as well see how we fared on brains. It looks like we did pretty well. Eloise Asfahl, D'Ella Bratcher, Quinn Brisben, Joyce Bailey, Fern Davidson, Betty Jean Daley, John Dykes, Shirley Franks, Carole Gungoll, Billy Hatch, Rosemary Harms, Maureen Hunnicutt, Bradley McDonald, Twyla Miller, Sarah Jane Marler, Harold Pratt, Joe Reinhart, Milda Smith, Norma Wilkins, and Jody Wiens are all listed.

* * *

This binder is running over with papers. I wonder what else I can find. These look like some old programs. This one is for the Aquaette Show. I think I know most of the Juniors in it. D'Ella Bratcher, Sharon Bruer, Delores Cooper, Shirley Franks, Carole Gungoll, Beth Pellow, Shirley Smack and Norma Wilkins all had important parts.

* * *

Here's one on the Junior Play too. That was really good. It was the first one in years put on by us alone. Let's see, the cast included Shirley Franks, Quinn Brisben, Carol Coen, Janeal Moots, Chuck Bond, Kendall Noah, D'Ella Bratcher, Rosemary Harms, Virginia Kepford, Jack Harris, John Dykes, and Mary Jean Hinman. They were swell, but the play wouldn't have amounted to much without these Juniors on the crews:

* * *

Also on crews were Laurence Swink, Norman Duckworth, David Tarpenning, Margy Kirkhart, Loy Dale, Pat Shaver, Joanna Champlin, Nancy Usher, Elaine Durkin, Fern Davidson, Myrna Shoffner, Mary Lou McCreary, Shirley White, Earl Jane Whisler, Bill Donnell, Quinn Brisben and Shirley Holt. The ushers were certainly pretty, and helpful too. They were Earl Jane Whisler, Barbara Patterson, Betty Ball, Edith Regier, Milda Smith, Mary Lou McCreary, Shirley Bradley, Darlene Hanks, Marcy Lee Rhodes, Benalea Baker, Carole Feuquay, Shirley White, Barbara Blair, Margy Kirkhart, and Dorothea Tribble.

* * *

It looks to me like we were quite a class. I hope we can live up to such a reputation this year. Well, guess I'd better put these things away and get back downstairs. I have a lot to do in the next few weeks.

* * *

We spent the rest of the year in a whirl of activities as we prepared to give the Seniors a reception they had never seen the equal before, with Southern music, wistaria blossoms, folk songs, dancing, and atmosphere that made one relive those glorious days of the Old South with refreshments even being served from verandas by colored Mammies and pickaninnies throughout the program. Yes, the Seniors really enjoyed all the hard work we had done for that evening.

* * *

Then the May Fete, in which some of us got to sing and play in the band while the festivities of the evening were going on. We all got to go to the dance our Queen of May had given for us.

* * *

After the May Fete we really had to live the rest of our school year in a hurry. We saw the sorry looks on the faces of the Seniors and knew that next year we would feel the same when we were the almighty Seniors.

* * *

Ten of our very lucky and very happy Junior boys were chosen as delegates to Boys' State. These boys, Quinn Brisben, Garlan Braithwaite, Kendall Noah, Harold Pratt, Chuck Bond, Leonard Atkinson, David Tennyson, Carlan Crawford, Robert Muir, and Gerald Unruh, will go to Norman June 2 to 9.

Beth Pellow, Margie Kirkhart, Nancy Wagner, Carolyn Reynolds and D'Ella Bratcher will be the five Junior girls to represent Enid High School at Girls' State this summer. The girls will go to Chickasha, June 2 to 9.

Sophomores

By FRANCES LONG and CARLA WILCOX

It was a bright day in May when we left our comfortable and familiar status in Junior High and clutched our draft cards shafting us for three years' service in EHS. Little did we dream on that youthful occasion what strange experiences confronted us. All summer we waited for further correspondence from Uncle Selby, and finally, the day arrived, and it was time to leave our familiar surroundings to enter through that historic door, through which, in years before, others, not unlike ourselves, had passed, probably with the fear and trembling like unto ours. At last the time had come, and we stood on the threshold of a new life—a life which was not our own—the disillusioning life of a "rookie" (Sophomore). We didn't look back at the childhood we were relinquishing, but plunged forward, at command, up the steps to the entrance of EHS. As the doors clanged shut behind us, we were swept into a turmoil of excitement. Loudmouthed Corporals (Juniors) and Sergeants (Seniors) herded us from one room to another where we were given confusing numbers and instructions from the Captains and Lieutenants (teachers). The General (principal) was most impressive of all as he announced crisp orders and schedules. Captains, Grace Stewart and Rex Wilson, were appointed to encourage us to perform our new duties. PFC's were chosen from our ranks, they were: President, Norman Lamb; Vice-President, Carl Jackson; Secretary, Sue Temple; Treasurer, Philip Stuart; Reporter, Barbara Jo Autry.

Certain individuals were selected for arbitration purposes. The members of this commission were Student Council Representatives: Tom Stewart, Paul Callas, Wayne Ball, Jean Wilkinson, Betty Daniels, Truman Netherton, Norella Doane, Mary Beth Garnett, Joyce Strickland, Elmer Hoyle, Maudine Albert, Barbara Jo Autry, Mary Martha Byrd, Mary Lou McCreary, Jack Paup, Philip Stuart, Doyle Alexander, Maynard Ewton, Rex Lukenbaugh.

After several weeks of chaos and unmerciful drill, we struggled to adjust ourselves to the penalties and humiliation of back-talk to the hardboiled Sergeants (Seniors) and Corporals (Juniors) who were thoroughly enjoying their superiority. Ridicule was rained upon us from all sides, we were the lowly Rookies (Sophomores)—despised, outcast and all but spat upon, and, besides that called "Misters" in contemptuous tones. Our backs ached with the weight of heavy assignments and rules meted out to us by the Captains (teachers). Our feet were weary from climbing unending stairs, and each day our hearts failed us as we hurried around the camp, facing new problems and requirements. Sudden outbursts from the loudspeakers struck fear to the marrow of our bones, and we strained our ears to catch the bewildering details given us by the General. After the first few weeks we resigned ourselves to getting up at the call of the bugle and doing our colossal tasks.

Some of our number chose to join the ranks of the EHS band where they donned blue and gold uniforms and spent dreary hours in the practice rooms. Richard Badgett, Harold Biby, Bob Boaz, Yvonne Bruner Fester, Pat Burkett, Dwight Corley, Marilyn Cotner, Bob Dix, Maynard Ewton, Marilyn Gilliland, Ben Hughes, Don Kenney, Marvin Kirk, Herman Luffman, Jon Lew Mackey, Jerry Maupin, Jean Ann Merritt, Evelyn May, Truman Netherton, Max Newland, Marilyn Rempel, Nate Scarritt, Janice Snyder, Jean Venable, June Venable, Connie Wedel, Don Wentworth, Wanda Woy, Marjorie Lowe, Lois Goodhue, Ann Cammack, Doyle Alexander, Shirley Allen, Herbie Bailey, Phyllis Childress, Bobby Dalke, Doris Davidson, Mary Beth Garnett,

CLASS

Iola Johnson, Marvagene Minnich, Dahl Mitchell, Jack Norman, Nevelyn Parriott, Tom Price, Vern Shipley, Jim Sneed, Dwayne Sterling, Edwin Peck.

Others slaved night and day reading the works of Shakespeare and made the Oklahoma Honor Society rolls: Sue Alexander, Shirley Allen, Barbara Jo Autry, Pat Burkett, Wayne Ball, Mary Martha Byrd, Ronald Cain, Marilyn Cotner, Elinor Carter, Leo Dance, Jack Dage, Norella Doane, Betty Lou Daniels, Ruby Diller, Maynard Ewton, Marilyn Fuqua, Dorothy Freck, Mary Beth Garnett, Jerald Gentry, Marilyn Gilliland, Cynthia Howell, Ben Hughes, Paula Kirk, Norman Lamb, David Lang, Jean Anne Merritt, Nedra Sue Marquis, John Mellick, Dahl Mitchell, Jerry Maupin, Jane Neilson, Bill Pitts, Wyvonna Poindexter, David Selby, Shirley Smith, Sandra Snoddy, Philip Stuart, Doris Tackett, Sue Temple, Jean Venable, Vernall Wilson, Jean Wilkinson, Tommie Lou Wright.

Many of our group followed strict training principles and became outstanding in athletics. Jim Bray, Aubrey Bristow, Jerry Haskins, Marvin Kline, Richard Massey, Dusty Nivison, Glen Painter, DeRoose Raymond, Thomas Stewart, Max Brady, Richard Campbell, Worth Clark, Jerry Dorn, Don Froese, J. B. Hathoot, Rockne Hughes, Billy Julian, Norman Lamb, Keith Lynn, Ralph McKinney, Delbert Peyton, Bob Phillips, Tom Price, Jack Reed, Leroy Roberts, Devinne Steed, made the football team.

Some chose the grilling hours of running lap on lap around a huge field and became fleet track men. They were: J. B. Hathoot, Bob Phillips, Don Cummings, Richard Massey, Rockney Hughes, Richard Campbell, David Lang, Delbert Peyton, Jon Mackey, Jack Reed, Bill Sturdevant, Bob Jenkins, Tom Stewart, Max Brady, Tommy Frank, Jerry Maupin, and Bob Brown.

A few became skilled in cage activities and invaluable to the basketball team . . . guys like Marvin Kline, Arnold Krause, Rex Lukenbaugh, Jim Reynolds, David Selby, Bert Weber, Ronald Cain, Lloyd Counce, Lloyd Fortney, Larry Goode, Tommy Silver, and Don Stites.

Thirteen excelled in Babe Ruth's favorite sport, Baseball. They were Jerry Haskins, Aubrey Bristow, Glen Painter, Jim Bray, Marvin Kline, Ronald Eichman, DeRoose Raymond, Keith Lynn, Dusty Nivison, Rex Lukenbaugh, Jim Reynolds, Jon Caton, and Norman Lamb.

Some brave souls attempted to drown their sorrow in song—lifting their voices in the sublime cadences of the Glee Club and Mixed Chorus. They included: Patsy Anthony, Helen Bacher, Allene Baker, Anne Base, Jo Ann Beneditti, Barbara Blake, Sandra Byers, Mary Martha Byrd, Ray Hermanski, Carl Jackson, Doris Johnson, T. C. Jones, Lavern Stout, Leona Mangus, Patty Mason, Barbara Pruitt, Edith Vogt, Bob Phillips, Lena Wattenbarger, Lucille Reed, Sandra Yoder, Marvin Anderson, Duane Berry, Jerry Carter, Jon Caton, Lloyd Counce, Dennis Gilbert, Marilyn Cannon, Elinor Carter, Ronald Hoskins, Carol Jantz, Jerry Jones, Frederick King, Carole Marquis, Donna Sturgeon, Marilyn Minton, Roberta Pyle, Kathryn Vogt, George Reddick, Leatrice Webb, James Reed, Tommy Wright, Joyce Cavett, Marilyn Chapek, Verna Mae Cox, Mary Louise Culver, Iris Dee, Wanda Elledge, Lois Glines, Rebekah Horton, Rockne Hughes, Jean Jackson, Belva Kelly, Paul Kirk, Jo Ann Martin, Delores Morris, Jeanette Swartout, Arno Pautsch, Rosann Weida, Glenda Rash, Martha Wilhoit, Betty Smith, Lee Wickline.

Other Heroic Rookies determined to break the monotony and inspire their comrades in distress, adopted the blue and white of the Bravettes and yelled mighty cheers that made the rafters ring.

They were Mary Lou McCreary, Patsy Sue Anthony, Maudine Albert, Janice Brittain, Sandra Brown, Rose Mary Calivas, Donna Campbell, Marilyn Chapek, Kay Davenport, Mary Ellen Davis, Norella Doane, Mary Edlin, Snooty Eitelman, Rita Ewing, Carole Feuquay, Nancy Fowler, Lois Glines, Wanda Greer, Shirley Harris, Gail Harris, Shirley Holtzen, Cynthia Howell, Paula Kirk, Shirley Langford, Evelyn Leachman, Delores Layfield, Bert Ellen Lowry, Ann Lundy, Cora Lee McDonald, Carole Marquis, Nedra Sue Marquis, Jane Neilson, Barbara Pruitt, Glenda Rash, Jessie Ann

Holidays in the Water...

By NANCY TINDLE

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. May I have your tickets please? Your programs are in your hands, and the show is ready to begin. Let me first introduce the instructor of this evening's presentation, Miss Pat Armould, whose excellent directing has made "Holidays in the Water" the great production it is. If you will now follow your programs, we will say, "On with the show!"

* * * * *

Time—the present, March 5 and 6, 8 p.m.
Setting—the swimming pool of Enid High School

Cast—the Aquaettes
Narrator—Bette McGugin

ACT I—VALENTINE'S DAY

Director—Shirlee Stoll

This day is the symbol of all that implies love and romance. Joanne Pendergraft swims the immortal Cupid in his search for Psyche, Sandra Brown. Weaving their love knot about the swimming Valentines: Norma Wilkins, Sharon Bruer, Sally Malone, Donna Campbell, Mavis Craton, and Jean Ranck; the sweethearts pledge their undying affection for each other and delight the eyes of all true observers of this day.

ACT II—EASTER

Director—Nancy Tindle

No spring would be complete without the annual Easter Parade to thrill the heart of every woman! Of course, the fanciful bonnets reflect many walks of woman's life. We see Mimi Almond, Movie Queen; Sue Temple, Housewife; Doris Leabo, Society Gal; Nedra Marquis, Country Lass; Sydney Rainey, Chorus Girl; Margie Lowe, Sports-woman; and, for a touch of spice, Shirley Smack, Hadacol! The children could never be left without an Easter Bunny, so we supplied two: Carole Gungoll and Beth Pellow, adequately equipped with cottontails and bunny ears.

Comedy Skit by Shirley Franks and D'Ella Bratcher

Timber Queen, attired in the latest beach wear!!!, is serenaded by that lover of lovers, Lumber Luke, also dressed in style!!!, in true Romeo fashion.

ACT III—FOURTH OF JULY

Director—Mimi Almond

The colorful show of whirling pinwheels, flashing sparklers, and dazzling rockets always amazes and entertains the celebrating crowds. Jean Ranck and Joanne Pendergraft touch off the fireworks performed by Mavis Craton, Nancy Tindle, Snooty Eitelman, Shirlee Stoll, Jane Neilson, and Jody Fowler. Reds, Whites, and Blues show their patriotism for the Flag on this Independence Day amid the inevitable fun-making.

ACT IV—HALLOWEEN

Director—Joanne Pendergraft

Ghosts and Goblins and Ghouls are on the prowl this night. The ghosts: Sally Malone, Beth Pellow, Nancy Tindle, Donna Campbell, Mimi Almond, and Sydney Rainey have the power to become water goblins. Weird moans and wails accompany the appearance of the Black Cat, Jean Ranck, who slithers about the goblins, now mysteriously adorned with fiery jack-o-lanterns. Midnight sends all the revelers back to their rest for another year.

Comedy Skit by Nancy Tindle and Snooty Eitelman

It's a good thing you didn't wear your Sunday go-to-meetin' suit, because those Rag Mops these washer women are wielding have no mercy when they're cavorting around and slinging water!

ACT V—CHRISTMAS

Director—Margaret Mood

Santa Claus, Carole Gungoll, is again preparing for that big trip to all the children's homes. His faithful reindeer: Shirlee Stoll, Doris Leabo, Snooty Eitelman, Margaret Mood, Sharon Ruch, Mavis Craton, Norma Wilkins, and Shirley Smack are prancing around his North Pole home while the jolly fellow loads his merry sleigh. Of course, no Christmas would be complete without a tree, so Santa and his reindeer gladly oblige by presenting a truly beautiful one.

ACT VI—NEW YEAR'S DAY

Director—Mavis Craton

Jane Neilson, as the New Year, has the privilege of introducing all the months that will be coming our way. Taking their places are: January, Sandra Brown; February, Jody Fowler; March, Donna Campbell; April, Nedra Marquis; May, Sue Temple; June, Sally Malone; July, Shirlee Stoll; August, Margaret Mood; September, Sharon Bruer; October, Snooty Eitelman; November, Doris Leabo; and December, Sharon Ruch. Time marches on around the clock and around the calendar.

GRAND FINALE—

THE CROWNING OF THE QUEEN

Candidates are: Mimi Almond, French Club; Joanna Champlin, Girls' Athletic Association; Ann Corry, Bravettes; Beverly Hillis, National Forensic League; Kae Major, Chemistry Club; Beth Pellow, Latin Club; Joanne Pendergraft, Aquaettes; Sydney Rainey, Palette Club; Jean Ranck, Library Club; Carolyn Reynolds, Spanish Club; Nancy Tindle, Delta Theta; and Shirley Wright, Distributive Education.

Our lovely Water Show Queen, chosen by none other than Farley Granger, is Miss Jean Ranck, candidate of the Library Club. No more perfect way is there to end an evening of enjoyment than by witnessing the crowning of this beautiful and popular member of the Senior Class of 1951.

Good evening, folks. We'll be seeing you next year.

Speech

By RONALD CARLBERG and HAROLD SINGER

One of the busiest departments in Enid High School is the speech department. Hudson Wilcox is the director of this group of students, a group who have worked themselves ragged and enjoyed doing it. The easiest way to see how much work this group has done is to relive the year with them and take a look at the activities in which they have participated.

In the United States there are five nationally approved speech contests for high schools. EHS students entered four of these. These contests really meant more to the participants than other events because they offered prizes that the students can use. The first of these was a radio speech contest, using four-minute original scripts entitled "I Speak for Democracy." Harold Singer took local honors, and with the honors, a portable radio. Harold's speech went all the way to state contest before it was defeated. Next came the American Legion's Constitutional oratory contest. Ronald Carlberg won the local and county competition, but placed second in the district meet. The two wins gave Ronald fifty dollars in bonds. Harold Singer took first place once again when the Knights of Pythias oratory contest was held. Harold won twenty-five dollars as county winner and is eagerly awaiting the state contest in June and a chance at the hundred dollar prize. The last of these contests was sponsored by Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Insurance Company. Brad McDonald has worked his way through the state competition and is at present preparing for the regional meet at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Another of the speechsters' big activities was the tournaments held throughout the year. Twenty-eight students entered at Phillips University. The next contest, at OBU in Shawnee, was attended by thirty-two EHS students. Fourteen students travelled to Alva next to help Enid High take second place in the tournament at Northwestern State Teachers' College. At the same time these students were in Alva, six other Enid representatives were entered at Edmond. Enid is attending two state contests later this year to round out the tournament activities of the year. Six students are entered in the National Forensic League tournament in Seminole. Any students who win at that contest will be qualified for the national tournament to be held in Los Angeles. All the students who have qualified in any previous meets will be entered in the state meet at Norman. Harold Singer and Ronald Carlberg will represent EHS in debate; Frances Long in humorous reading; Marvella Hern or Veldena Jones in dramatic reading (both girls qualified, but rules only allow one entrant from a school); Marvella Hern in poetry interpretation; Bette McGugin, girls' extemp; Brad McDonald, boys' extemp; Carol Deel, girls' radio; Ronald Carlberg, boys' radio; John Dykes, public address; Quinn Brisben, John Dykes, and Garlan Braithwaite, discussion; and Ronald Carlberg in original oratory.

The speech department produced three assemblies this year. On January 12 the department presented three skits to the student body. Lawrence Neill, Brad McDonald, Garlan Braithwaite, and Mr. Wilcox, substituting for John Dykes, showed their interpretation of what happens when the women gather for an afternoon of cards. Veldena Jones, Jerry Hooley, Doris Ayers, and Patricia Peak presented a hillbilly romance entitled "Orrey's Courtin'." The last of these three was a gypsy musical combining the talents of Russell Biby, Barbara Blair, Ronald Carlberg, Jo Clark, Sydney Rainey, and Lolita Knaus. Mr. Wilcox joined forces with Miss Morrow for the Easter assembly on March 22. On May 4, the speechsters showed they too had musical talent with a "gay nineties revue."

The highlights of this year's work as far as the audiences were concerned were the three plays presented by the department. The first of these was the all-school play on December 10, "One Foot in Heaven." The combined efforts of 111 students, representing the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes, all worked together to make this production a success. On February 26, the Juniors started what we hope will grow into a tradition. They presented Enid High's first Junior Class Play in years, "We Shook the Family Tree." Something different was presented when the Seniors took over. On April 10, they proved that scenery and props didn't make any difference in a play with their production of "Our Town."

Another first came into being with the organization of a speakers' bureau. Each member of the speech class was assigned a topic of interest to high school students, and a speech was prepared on this topic. These speeches were then given to the home rooms who asked to hear them.

Looking back over a year as full as that, it is easy to see why this article started, "one of the busiest departments in EHS is the speech department."

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"Our Town"

By RUTH DWYER and JEAN RANCK

At 8:00 p.m. on April 10 at the Education Building, the curtain did not go up on the Senior play, "Our Town." The reason being that the curtain was already up when the audience arrived. This play was the most unusual ever put on by a Senior class and also the best according to the opinion of all who saw it. There were even numerous requests for a repeat performance, but due to a full schedule of activities, it was not possible.

As 8 o'clock approached, the stage manager and narrator, Ronald Carlberg, appeared on the barren stage in full view of the audience and began placing chairs and tables in position. At the back of the stage there was no scenery, only the bare brick wall.

But as Ronald began telling about "Our Town," Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, the stage came to life in your imagination. The neighboring homes of the Webbs and Gibbs, although represented by only chairs and tables, actually came into view.

The plot centers on the lives of Emily Webb, played by Nancy Tindle, and George Gibbs, played by Joe Hladek. The first act, The Daily Life, presented the Webb and Gibbs families consisting of Carol Deel, Pat Robison, Harold Singer, Clyde Lawter, Billie Mitchell, Virginia Mongold, Nancy Tindle and Joe Hladek.

The second act was Love and Marriage and the third, A New Life. The whole play was a delightful combination of both the humorous and the serious. It showed how little people think about life as they're living it and how short time really is. There were tears in nearly everyone's eyes as the curtain fell.

Everyone did an excellent job with his part, but Ronald Carlberg, Nancy Tindle, and Joe Hladek are to be congratulated especially. It is difficult to say who was best because everyone did his job as near to perfection as was possible.

Other members of the cast were: Zane Miles, Jerry Hooley, Marvella Hern, Max Dixon, Joann Stains, Tommy Knotts, Rita Adams, Reuben Stettinisch, George Blumenauer, Russell Biby, Doris Ayers, Sue Bradbury, Donna Bond, Jane Duerksen, Frances Long, Ruth McIntire, Patricia Peak, Sydney Rainey, JoAnn Sanders, Gene Shipley, Beverly Smith, Bette McGugin, Jane White and Erlin Trekell.

"Our Town" was an exceptional play, true, but it did take a great deal of work by the stage crews. The stage manager's position was ably filled by Veldena Jones, while her assistants were Doris Ayers, Lorine Donnelley, Mildred Wright and JoAnn Wagner. The carpenter crew consisted of Erlin Trekell, Gene Shipley, Zane Miles, Jerry Hooley, Ronald Carlberg and Paul Lasen. Mildred Wright, Lorine Donnelley and Jerry Herzberg doubled as electricians. The organist was Veldena Jones, and Jo Clark took care of the makeup.

The advertising crew was made up of three members, Bette McGugin, Beverly Hillis and Zane Miles.

The Senior class also is indebted to some underclassmen who gave great support to the cast. These people were Leonard Atkinson, Gary Babb, Garlan Braithwaite, Lonnie Brandenburg, Bradley McDonald, Lawrence Neill, Bill Shore, Jim Sneed, Ralph Weida and Lee Wickline.

There is always glory for those who are seen in any play, but there are also many people you don't see that deserve much

It's a Pleasure . . .

Our close contact with the faculty and students of Enid High School is a constant, annual enjoyment. . . . We proudly record their many school-year accomplishments in the pages of our news publications, The Enid Events and The Enid Shopper, and then have the greater privilege of recording these events in a more permanent form through the pages of The Quill Magazine.

We like to feel we have had a small part in the fine recognition this publication receives each year in state-wide competition with other high schools. Skilled craftsmen in our mechanical department look forward each year to their work on The Quill Magazine. The printing of this book is one of our more important activities, and each edition is produced with a maximum of pride. It is truly a pleasure.

Our Queens

By

JO ANN WAGNER

Enid High School certainly had its share of beautiful girls—and just as sweet as they were beautiful, but all of them could not be elected to positions of glamour, and if there is anything Enid High School students love it is Glamour. They insisted on elections to glorify a few lovely young women, and Mr. Selby reluctantly complied—hating always to see the inevitable disappointment to the many who can't be elected which elections always bring, but agreeing that there was colorful ceremony about the institution of Queens.

Varied in their abilities, personalities, and talents—except those of beauty and friendliness were:

Darle Sullivan, upper left, who was chosen Basketball Queen and whose interests are varied. She is a very good example of the typical American girl. A contagious smile and always giggling makes her one of the best liked girls in Enid High.

Then Carla Wilcox, upper right, modest, capable, and with an amazing friendliness that was always all-inclusive. Her modesty was almost a fault, and with those looks too. She could write anything from football to poetry and match your mood perfectly, from slapstick to pathos—whatever the occasion demanded, and you could always depend on her.

Jean Ranck, center, combined the executiveship demanded, as their president, in leading the Bravettes to a successful year, likewise her interests included Palette art club, where her interest and artistic skill there and in art class won for her an Art Scholarship to Phillips University. She was crowned Queen of the Aquaettes Water Show in competition with many other beauties. A straight "A" student, Jean also had time to help edit this yearbook.

Lovable Letha Boyle, lower left, our May Queen, was generous with her time whenever anyone needed anything—a friend to everyone, in her part day at Enid High she accomplished more than most people do all day, and no one was happier about her election than the adults with whom she worked every afternoon at Newman's, for they recognized those same qualities in Letha her other friends at school were paying tribute to.

Marvella Hern, lower right, a marvelous girl with a record for activities, leadership, friendliness, and honors seldom accorded one person. Our lovely Band Queen, Marvella's honors of being President of Girls' Nation, President of the Student Body, and winner in various Speech awards, all proved her ability to take those things with the same unassuming friendliness, remaining just the same sweet girl she had been before.

By JO ANN WAGNER and ELIZABETH SUE WARREN

At last the finished product of many months of hard work has finally arrived.

The hard work began last October 17 when Miss Ruth Scott and V. O. Marshall, sponsors, appointed the 1950-1951 Quill Magazine Staff. The students were chosen upon recommendations of teachers in the English, Commercial, and Mathematics departments.

First came the good times as members from the Quill Weekly and Annual staffs journeyed to Norman to attend the Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Association conference held at the North Base, October 20 and 21.

After attending sessions on different phases of newswriting, the staff members enjoyed a barbecue. Following the morning meetings in which a first place plaque was presented to Jo Ann Wagner, 1951 editor, for the 1950 Quill Annual, the homecoming parade was viewed. In the afternoon, the students attended the O.U.-Kansas game.

Back home, with renewed spirits, the staffs immediately began to plunge into the strenuous work that lay ahead.

While the assigned stories were being prepared, ads and snapshots began to pour in. Typists were diligently working on copy, and class editors were keeping their ears open for news.

"Where did you get the idea for your book," was one of the many questions that was asked Richard Llewellyn, noted British author, when he spoke to the journalism and English classes January 25. Mr. Llewellyn has written many known books, the most famous of these being, "How Green Was My Valley."

His delightful British accent and witty sayings entranced all the students, and they came out of the Little Theater feeling that life was really worth living with such interesting personalities to meet.

Another famous person to speak to the newswriting classes was Steve Owen, coach of the New York Giants professional football team and long-time close friend of our own Bruce Selby, principal.

The students were amazed at some of the remarks this delightful speaker made, especially when he commented that the football players earn from $200 to $1,000 per game.

Many interesting discussions were held concerning the different phases of football, coming first-hand from a well-known coach whose warm, human and kindly philosophy of life was evident in his answers to controversial sports matters. It was easy to recognize his greatness.

"Have you read the story on the front page of this week's Quill?" is a familiar question, but did you know that many hours of labor are behind each copy of the Quill Weekly?

Upon taking a look into the Quill Office you would hear a variety of different sounds.

A grumble from a reporter as an infuriated editor gives him an assignment that was to be covered last week. In contrast you'd hear a chuckle coming from the humor editor. What's this?—a puzzled look from the copy-readers as they try to interpret the sign languages of hurried reporters, and a groan from the typists.

After the story is copyread, typed, and edited, it is sent to the able hands of the printing department, under the direction of Herbert A. Seem.

Everyone eagerly awaits the finished product to see if he or she has a story in.

Each week of the school year, volunteer reporters from the journalism classes cover news from the various grade and junior high schools. Those collecting and writing grade school news this year were: Nancy Wagner, Elizabeth Warren, Lois Venable, Rita Turner, Carolyn Reynolds, Connie Hill, Shirle Sears, Sara Lou Wells, Jody Sanders,

The journalism students assumed the responsibility of gathering material and sending it to press for others to enjoy, while the headache of copy-reading and proof-reading went to Miss Ruth Scott, sponsor.

Students felt repaid, however, when they saw their material in The Enid Daily Eagle or The Enid Morning News, and the school children throughout the city felt a thrill at seeing their names and activities, and yes, often pictures in the daily paper.

High school journalism students felt a debt of gratitude and appreciation to the editorial staff of the News and Eagle for their co-operation in making this experience more practical for them through printing students' news coverage with regularity.

SPECIAL DELUXE

By

WANDA SEELEY and ANN DOCKUM

Ingredients:

- 2 kegs of pep and enthusiasm
- 1 barrel of laughs
- 1 bushel of thoughtfulness
- 1 bottle of spirit
- 1 peck of talent

The ingredients of the E.H.S. Special Deluxe were added alternately throughout the school year to make the students' diet of activities well-balanced.

The first measurements were sifted out on September 6, when Marvella Hern, Senior, elaborated on her experiences in Washington, D.C., at Girls' Nation.

The student assembly, held the first of October, provided us with enough laughs and talent to last some time. Margy Kirkhart, Russell Biby, and Marian Adams proved their abilities without the help of the faculty for a highly entertaining assembly.

G. Wallace Robertson, New York, Director of youth work for the Presbyterian Church of the United States, added our first tablespoon of thoughtfulness Wednesday, October 11, when he spoke to the student body and faculty on the three basic elements in the design for living.

The beautiful mezzo-soprano voice of Miss Martha Hronopulos, former E.H.S. graduate, on October 24 thrilled us with arias from "Carmen" and a few popular selections.

A thoughtful and yet sad assembly was held November 2 in the halls of E.H.S. An assembly not only of the students but of parents and friends of the boys whose names appear on the bronze plaque in the front hall. This plaque is in memory of all Enid High graduates who gave their lives in World War II.

More talent came to our fabulous Deluxe when Miss Bernita Shaeffer, from Phillips, played the accordion preceded by a talk by Ed Dyer, Dean of Men at Phillips University.

Reverend Robert J. Smith's talk on the "Three Musts in Life," Friday, November 3, furnished another part of our bushel of thoughtfulness.

The next two assemblies made up our bottle of spirit. The spirit of Thanksgiving was added to our Special in a stirring assembly by the music department November 22. The girls' and boys' chorus gave seasonal numbers, the featured one being "Grandma's Thanksgiving" by the mixed chorus. December 20, Miss Maurine Morrow's choristers again blended their voices—this time in Christmas carols followed by a visit from Saint Nick increasing the already prevalent Christmas spirit around E.H.S.

The world's champion typist, Cortez Peters, visited Enid High School January 22. With the help of the public address system, Mr. Peters was able to exhibit his talent of typing 240 words per minute to all the students.

January 29, the students were proud indeed when Mike Monroney, Oklahoma's Junior Senator, spoke to us over the loud speaker. He stated his wish that every high school in the state had a building like ours.

The Brotherhood Assembly, held February 6, brought three stirring speakers together in one of the most moving programs of the year, Monsigneur John J. Walde, a Catholic Priest, Israel Chodas, a Jewish Rabbi, and Dr. George Sears, a Protestant, filled our bushel of thoughtfulness when they stressed in a non-sectarian assembly the importance of brotherhood.

To the delight of students and faculty alike, the Speech Department gave their highly entertaining assembly February 9. Three skits, "Cards," presented by John Dykes, Bradley McDonald, Garlan Braithwaite, and Lawrence Neill; "Musical Variety" featuring Sydney Rainey, Velva Jo Clark, Russell Biby, Barbara Blair, and Ronald Carlberg; and "Orry's Courtin'," enacted by Patricia Peak, Doris Ayers, Jerry Hooley, Veldena Jones, and Mildred Wright, stage manager.

More talent and laughs plus a sprinkling of pep followed close after on February 23 when the Bravette Assembly was given. Margy Kirkhart, Junior, announced the various skits of the talent scout show which kept us rolling in the aisles. Immediately following, John Dykes, Junior, discussed briefly his trip to Washington, D.C., as a representative of Region Nine of the Boy Scouts of America.

March 22 marked one of the most inspirational assemblies of the year—our Easter Assembly. The chorus, under Miss Morrow's direction, furnished the music while members of Mr. Hudson Wilcox's Speech classes re-enacted the Easter story. The program was brought to a dramatic close with the Hallelujah Chorus.

Julius Caesar (Cease Her) visited E.H.S. Tuesday, April 24, contributing another part to our barrel of laughs. The Sophomores, under the direction of Roberta Pyle, author, blended their talents in a hilarious westernized synopsis of the famous play by Shakespeare. Norman Lamb, Sophomore class president, was in charge. A trumpet solo by Truman Netherton, two piano duets by Carole Marquis and Mary Beth Garnett; Kay Davenport and Edith Vogt, and a marimba solo by Tommie Lou Wright added just enough talent for a good taste of our Deluxe. A little pep and enthusiasm was tossed in when basketball letters were awarded by Coach Paul Geymann.

All E.H.S. students agreed that the Special Deluxe was excellent in quality and quantity. It provided 880 large servings with plenty to spare.

Oklahoma High School Athletic Association.

An ardent sports fan, Mr. Selby never misses a game, but that is equally true of anything anywhere that Enid High is doing. He is always there if Enid High School is being represented, and he always knows that Enid High School's "was the best," "looked the sharpest," or some other pardonably prejudiced remark evidencing an irrevocable loyalty that inspires everyone to do his best, and makes the business of learning for restless teenagers have a thrill that adds that extra something to the routine of schedules, dating, and examinations, something that makes even the most perverse students, scholastically speaking, write back to this principal from all parts of the world and hit the halls of Enid High as soon as they drop into town. Another name for this might be Leadership.

Mr. Selby has two children, David, a Sophomore, and Mrs. John Harold Saxon, Jr.

A friend of everyone who knows him, Mr. Selby says his greatest interest is people. He is the kind of person whose dynamic personality and enormous amount of energy make friends for him wherever he goes.

Amid the hundreds of decisions these two men make daily there is still time for an occasional visit, smile, or amusing anecdote, or the thrill of replaying a game—that is all a part of directing the young life they both love so well.

Baseball-Mid-State Champs

By

W. D. JONES

Mid-State champs and the University of Oklahoma Invitational Tournament Crown along with their 19-3 record helped prove this year's addition of the Enid Plainsmen Baseball team as one of the best in the state.

Coach John Provost's charges opened the season with a non-conference game with Garber. Still in the experimental stage Coach Provost used three pitchers—Athey, Bristow, and Fishinghawk—as the Plainsmen coasted to a 13-2 victory.

In the second home game of the season the Plainsmen ran roughshod over the Shawnee Wolves, posting an 18-4 win. Jerry Haskins and J. B. White combined efforts to limit the Wolves to five hits. Bert Weber and Virgil Cummings led the 12-hit Enid attack with two bingles apiece.

Northeast of Oklahoma City invaded Enid next, for the third straight home game, and ran headlong into a 17-7 ambush. The game was wild and woolly with Enid scoring 17 runs on only 9 hits, 3 by Evert Burdick.

Traveling to Garber the Plainsmen got beautiful 1-hit pitching from Chuck Athey as they blanked the Wolverines 12-0. Gene Cerny, brother of Sam Cerny, last year's All-State catcher, collected Garber's only hit, while Rip Radcliff garnered 3 singles in 3 trips.

In the biggest test of the young season the Plainsmen pinched Capitol Hill 5-3 in 10 innings, the longest game of the year, to run their Mid-State record to 3 wins against no losses. "Jake" White pitched masterful 3-hit ball for 9 innings before retiring in favor of reliever Jerry Haskins. Tied 2-all at the end of the regular 7 innings, the two clubs battled on even terms until the tenth when Enid scored 3 runs on a single by Tom Mannuel, an error on Jim Hurd's fly ball, Gene Torbett's single, a base on balls to DeRoose Raymond and a single by Jim Bray. White struck out 14 men in the 9 innings he worked. Next the diamond crew nosed by Classen 9-7 for their fourth conference win in as many ties. Sophomore ace Jerry Haskins tossed 4-hit ball but 6 Enid errors kept him in hot water. The Plainsmen scored early and coasted in for the decision.

Although outfit 4-2 the Tigers from Norman handed the Warriors their first loss in 7 outings by leaning on the long end of a 2-1 count. Norman bunched their 2 singles with a base on balls and an error in the third inning to post their winning margin. Evert Burdick with 2 for 3 was the only Enidite who could connect regularly.

Enid's next conquest was from the Central Cardinals of Oklahoma City. "Injun Joe" Fishinghawk came in to relieve Jerry Haskins in the first inning with one across, one away, and the bases jammed full. Joe got out of the inning after the Cards pushed one more run across. Enid overcame the 2-0 lead and tied it up 4-all in the sixth. In the seventh Bert Weber's powerful triple paved the way for two more Enid runs and the game-winning margin.

The last regular non-conference game of the season turned into a rout as the hometown crew walloped the Alva Goldbugs 12-4. Chuck Athey and Aubrey Bristow stopped Alva on 6 hits while "Rocket" Hurd, "Cass" Manuel, and Jones collected 2 each of Enid's 9 base hits.

In the coldest and windiest weather ever imagined for a baseball game the Warriors topped the Shawnee crew 6-5 in near freezing temperature. Trailing 5-2 the Plainsmen scored 3 runs to even the game in the seventh inning. In the eighth Jones drew a base on balls, was sacrificed to second by White and scored when the centerfielder dropped Evert Burdick's fly ball.

In the most polished performance of the year the Warriors eked by Capitol Hill 3-1. Sophomore Aubrey Bristow allowed but 4 hits as he set the Redskins down in order for 4 innings. Sparkling fielding and 2 timely hits by Gene "Barbells" Torbett paved the way to a most cherished victory.

A showdown for the Mid-State conference crown was on the minds of the Classen Comets as they invaded the home stamping grounds for their second try at the "Power-

Track

By

CHUCK ATHEY

With the opening of February the 1951 track team got under way. Out of the 38 boys who reported only five were lettermen of the previous year: Steve Champlin, Senior; Bill Cobb, Senior; Norman Duckworth, Junior; Jim Hurd, Senior, and Don Sloan, Junior. With such little experience in his scanty squad, Coach Jim Stroup set out to build an entirely new team. Since the air was still a little nippy, the first few weeks of practice were spent running in the school gymnasium. Several early meets were scheduled, but bad weather forced them to be called off.

Although there were one or two previous inter-squad meets, Steve Champlin was the first Enid lad to see real competition. This was at Stillwater, March 30th, at the Oklahoma Aggie Relays. Champlin was the only Plainsman entrant in the meet. He took a 3rd place in the shot-put.

The next weekend, April 6, saw the whole team journeying to Duncan to compete in the Annual Southern Oklahoma Relays. This was the first meet in which most of the team had competed. Although Champlin and Hurd were the only two thinclads from Enid who placed in the meet, the newcomers received a lot of good experience, and showed up well considering their experience. Hurd placed an easy first in the pole vault with a better than average, 10 feet 9 inches. Champlin came in with a 4th place in the shot-put.

On Friday, the 13th of April, a ten-man team went to Shawnee to participate in the Bison Relays. Friday the 13th might be an unlucky day for some, but not for Hurd and Champlin. Again, these were the only two Plainsmen who chalked up points for the Enid team. Hurd placed a close 2nd by vaulting 11 feet 4½ inches, his highest jump of the year up to this point, and Champlin won the shot with a put of 47 feet 8 inches, also his best of the year.

A scant Plainsmen team ventured to Norman and the Mid-State Track Meet the following Saturday. Enid managed to net 15 points in the meet and rank 4th in the Mid-State standings. Jimmy Hurd came home with another 1st place in the pole vault, while Champlin copped 1st and 4th places in the shot-put and discus throw, respectively. Bill Cobb won a 3rd place in the 440-yard dash and the mile relay team, consisting of Cobb, Sloan, Dykes, and William Sturdevant, placed 4th in the running.

Golf

STEVE CHAMPLIN

Some eighteen hopefuls reported for Coach Paul Geymann's golf squad when the team was announced. Under the careful guidance of Coach Geymann, this team forged ahead to be one of the most successful golf teams in Enid High School's history. This was only one, however, of the many spring sports in which the Plainsmen excelled. This team, with some of the brightest young golf stars ever to be produced by this town, placed in every meet winning three dual meets and losing one.

In the first meet of the season the Plainsmen conquered the Pioneers of Stillwater High School 9 to 6 on the Pioneers' home course. The travelling squad for this meet was composed of Max Moyers, Richard Havenstrite, Jim Barnes, and David Selby. Moyers and Havenstrite were the team's outstanding golfers and were held highly in the regard of many of the town's older golfers. April 23 the Plainsmen played a return match with Stillwater at Oakwood Country Club and once again defeated the Pioneers by an 11-to-4 count.

In their second meet of the season the Plainsmen turned the Ponca City Wildcats

May Fete

By

ANN CORRY and CARLA WILCOX

Among the lavender and old lace memories Seniors of all times hold dear to their hearts is the May Fete in Government Springs Park. To the Seniors of 1951 it was the grand finale to three great and glorious years at Enid High School—a dream of beauty that time can never fade, but, which instead, will grow more cherished through the years. It was something else too . . . it was one of those wonderful things that just mean being a Senior—something our very own—something that leaves an impression so deep in our minds that it would be impossible to forget.

We'd looked forward to the May Fete all our lives, and when the day finally arrived, it was a beautiful one. The trees were big and green and shadowy, the flowers swayed gently, the lake rippled softly, but most beautiful of all was the Queen . . . long live the Queen!

She came down the walk, as sweet as a rose . . . our Letha Boyle, escorted by her handsome Herald, Jim Hurd, followed by her attendants, W. D. Jones and Carla Wilcox, Earl Baugher and Mimi Almond, John Jarboe and Joan Gentry, Gene Torbett and Darle Sullivan, Tommy Venable and Ann Corry, Bill Cobb and Earlene Baugher, J. B. White and Della Rae Crandall, Steve Champlin and Jody Fowler.

The other Seniors were coming then, to complete the procession. The pretty colors of formals were mirrored in the lake. Then, suddenly, everyone was straining to see the Queen of May crowned and asking, "Has he kissed her yet?" Finally she was seated, reigning over the pageant, with all the graciousness of royalty.

The program continued, the chorus lifted their voices in song, you heard the band playing softly a haunting melody as the boats rocked in the shimmering lake, and suddenly, too soon, the Maypoles were wound, the program ended, the song was done, and as the golden rays of sunset glinted through the trees, the Seniors scattered like pastel petals in a breeze, waving goodbye—gaily parting—but, the memory lingers on.

Junior-Senior Reception

By JO ANNE PENDERGRAFT and SHIRLEE STOLL

Soft background music of old southern melodies came dimly to our ears as we entered the door and took our seats for the 1951 Junior-Senior Reception. It was our first introduction to the program. As we settled down to watch, the curtain opened, and in keeping with the theme, "Way Down South," we saw an old-fashioned southern veranda, complete with sweeping stairway, honeysuckle and magnolias.

The first division, "The Old South," began as the characters came onto the stage with the song "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny." Included in this section were such old time favorites as "Lucky Old Sun," and "Carolina in the Mornin'." It came to a close with a dance to the tune of "'Neath the Southern Moon."

After this, came the most unusual feature of the program. Instead of serving afterwards as has been the custom in the past, Sophomore girls dressed as colored pickaninnies and mammies served refreshments to the audience during the part of the program entitled "Folk Songs and Southern Hospitality."

Next the scene shifted to the present with the section entitled "The New South." The Junior cast sang and danced their way through it with renditions of such popular songs as "Mockin' Bird Hill," "The Shenandoah Waltz," and a medley of Dixieland jazz tunes. The whole cast of about 80 Juniors closed the show by singing the grand finale, "Dixie."

The Junior Class Sponsors, Mr. Homer Henson and Miss Ruth Moyer, were in charge of the reception. Plans were made by a planning committee which included the Junior Class officers: President, Paul Russell; Vice-President, Lennie Long; Secretary, Melva Dee; Treasurer, Dolores Morgan, and Reporter, Carole Gungoll. Teachers on the committee were Mr. Homer Henson, Miss Ruth Moyer, Miss Pauline Muegge, Miss Florel Helema, Miss Pat Armould, Miss Grace Stewart, Miss Maurine Morrow, Miss Katherine Bales, Mr. Jack McDaniel, Miss Ellen Correll, Mrs. Lois Vance, Mr. Harold Duckett, and Mr. Hudson Wilcox. Other Juniors were Richard Havenstrite, Twyla Miller, Joyce Moore, Helen Mudgett, Jody Wiens, David King, Norma Hoover, Jack Harris, Joanna Champlin, Gloria Breed, Meme Cromwell, Delores Ehrlich, Wahneta Cooper, Harold Pratt, and Gerald Unruh.

From sixth hour came Melvena Schwedland's team and Betty Daniels' champions. Joyce Bailey, Ruth Dyer, Ramona Galusha, Janis Greer, Mary Beth Hays, Beverly Hillis, Shirley Holt and Frances Lavicky were on Melvena's team.

Eleven teams competed for the basketball championship. The second hour gym class's team consisted of Patty Hildabrand, Joyce Moore, Mary Simerley, Atha Robinson, Betty Reinhardt and Beverley Sowle, captains.

On Cynthia Howell's third hour team were Yvonne Craton, Barbara Funk, Syble Kelly, Lois Glines, Alicebeth Grimes, Peggy Cravens, Sandra Brown, Paula Kirk, Wyvonna Poindexter and Mildred Champney.

On one fourth hour team were Barbra Hutcherson, Mary Coonrod, Maxine Hoover, Reta Hardesty, Mildred DeRoin, Elisa Rodriguez and Carol Codner, captain. On the other team were Barbara Barnes, Doris Lebow, Caroline Schroeder, Bertha Chapman, Edith Hirst, Cleta Hardesty, Doris Franke and Marian Hursh, captain.

Benalea Baker's fifth hour team consisted of Shirley White, Marguerite Harmon, Delores Ehrlich, Pat Mullin, Joyce Donnell, Vernell Wilson and Barbara White.

The sixth hour gym class took the honors by having both the tournament champions and the consolation winners. They were Shirley Holt's and Joy Cox's teams. On Joy's team were Joyce Bailey, Rose Mary Calivas, Janis Greer, Maureen Hunnicutt, and Doris Saeger.

All tournament games were played with the help and supervision of Miss Lois Haskin, girls' gym instructor.

fair way to work it. The start of this year's tournament found 12 teams entered.

In the first round games, the play was not as polished as it proved to be later on. For many of the teams, it was the first time they had ever played together and that round was marked by many erratic plays. However, in the second round the play picked up and was somewhat more refined.

As the winners moved into the third bracket, the good teams began to show their stuff, and many individual stars could be spotted.

The play in the finals was very good, and the highly touted Ink Spots strutted their stuff marching on through to capture the crown. The Ink Spots thus became the 1951 champions.

The winning team had some very good athletes in its fold, and most of them are well known for some other sport. This squad was made up of the following boys: Evert Burdick, Tommy Manuel, Tom Venable, Duane Moulton, Dean Gibbon, Don Sloan, Vernon Clark, and Joe Fishinghawk.

The team the Ink Spots defeated in the finals was a game crew from the D.O.

class. This team was composed of the following members: Noel Ginder, Duane Lewis, Bruce McKee, Jeane Powell, Bill Seacat, Bill Howard, Ed Dunn, and Ralph Kremeier.

Among some of the other teams we find boys who are also known in the sports world of Enid High School. The other teams are as follows: Fourth Hour—Charlie Black, Don Dorn, Gene Sibit, Wayne Lawver, Virgil Cummins, Walter Nutt, and Bud Clothier; the "Slugs"—Morris Hutcherson, Gene Cummings, Karl Geis, Gary Sanchez, Charles Purnell, Bob Winget, and Don Nave; the Typelice—Glen Painter, Bob Galusha, Jerry Jones, Dusty Nivison, and Bob Jernigan; the Chemists—Bradley McDonald, James Dorman, Ted Elam, Junior Ramsey, Don Wuerflein, Bob Dillon, Ronald Eichman, Bob Moore, and Charles McClure; the D.E.—Fred Burnham, Gerald Brannon, Donnie Lewis, and George Blumenauer; the Bugs—Larry Goode, Tommy Frank, Norman Mikulecky, John Mellick, and Jack Dage; Fifth Hour—Lennie Long, Richard Hampton, Neal Myers, Denny Rosser, Roy Arnold, Bob Moore, Richard Schroeder, and Jerry Brown; the Rockets—Jim Finnegan, Lowell Harman, Monte DeBusk, Charles Monsees, Ray Ruzek, Earl Baugher, and Dean Carter; Sixth Hour—Keith Lynn, J. B. White, Jerry Haskins, Chuck Athey, DeRoose Raymond, Rip Radcliffe, Glen Bowers, Jim Stafford; the Rebels—Tommy Watkins, John Hume, Kendall Noah, Harold Pratt, Laurence Swink, and Jon Keller.

These are the boys who competed in this year's highly successful program. It is hoped, by the sponsors, that a large field will again take part at this time next year and cooperate to make this program, once again, a success.

Despite the razzing and abuse by the older GI's (Great Inquisitioners), we have lived to see the end of our first year of service drawing to a close, and we can look back to many hours of enjoyment and find that as the year progressed our duties became less burdensome and our rewards more compensating. Realizing that serving our first year as Rookies in the service of EHS is probably the hardest, we now emerge with profound respect for the General (Principal), the Captains and Lieutenants (Teachers and Coaches) and even the cocky Corporals (Juniors) and Sergeants (Seniors). With genuine regret we bid "Boy Voyage" to the tough Sergeants (Seniors) who have received their sailing orders. We even smile as we anticipate next year when we will see the important Corporals (Juniors) strutting in the places of the Sergeants (Seniors), for then to us will be given the delightful privilege of inflicting the punishment that we received at their hands, upon the unsuspecting Rookies (Sophomores) of 1952.

The site committee has Mike Webber as chairman, along with Forrest Warren and Cleo Fisher as members. The president, Dave Bucher, is an ex-officio on each of these committees.

Three new grade schools — Cleveland, Coolidge, and Carver school for colored people have been completed during this past year under the supervision of the Board of Education. Contracts have been let for additions to Taft and Adams. Sites for two new six-room grade schools have been bought, and a two-room addition is going on Carver colored school.

The running of the school system may be compared to a big business as the property and schools run into several millions of dollars.

The present School Board has run the school system with efficiency, and their unflagging interest has resulted in one of the best administrative periods in the history of Enid.

We are glad to take this opportunity to express the appreciation of the Enid High School students for the deep interest and fine service the members of the Enid Board of Education have shown through the past year and are continuing to show.

Life In Enid High

year were Jean Ranck, President; Nancy Tindle, Vice-President; Donna Stephens-Davis, Secretary; Ann Corry, Treasurer; and Clyde Lawter, Reporter. Of course the looked-forward-to event of the year was the annual Palette trip—this year to Wichita. While they were in Wichita, the members visited the Museum of Art, the Regional Scholastic Art Exhibit, and Hinkel's store. One Palette member, Nancy Tindle, took first place and $15 in the state Delta Kappa Gamma poster contest. Naturally no year is complete without parties, and this club had a couple of bang-up ones—a Christmas party and turkey dinner at Nancy Tindle's home and a hamburger supper at Karl Geis's.

"Softball, basketball, swimming, tennis too—Gym-managers never gripe at all the work they do!"

And they do lots of it, too! With Miss Lois Haskin and Miss Pat Armould as sponsors these busy girls found time to meet and organize during the year. Their job is to check all the athletic equipment in and out, including balls, bats, racquets, swim suits, and towels. They also organize teams, manage games, and take care of the point system. Sometimes they're asked to help instruct students, and they're available as errand girls at all times. These here-to-fore unappreciated girls deserve a little credit and praise for the job they so efficiently perform!

"To swim like Esther Williams is the goal of each mermaid—And the Aquaettes of E.H.S. have really made the grade!"

Something new has been added to Enid High—and everyone who saw the Aquaettes' Water Show is agreed that it's here to stay. This newly-organized swimming club, under the guidance of Miss Pat Armould, certainly made a name for themselves and accomplished things their first year. With executives Barbara Autry, President; Jo Anne Pendergraft, Vice-President; and Mimi Almond, Secretary, officiating, these advanced swimmers went about planning and carrying out an elaborate water carnival that was as pleasing to Enid as any professional water show. They also sponsored a bathing beauty contest, with candidates from all the organizations of E.H.S. sending pictures to Movie Star Farley Granger, who rightly selected lovely Jean Ranck, candidate from the Library Club, to reign over the 1951 Water Show. Quite a successful year—and future years are sure to be even better.

"There's a clanking, grinding roar, and you stop and count to ten. Chances are that the Machine Shop is at it again!"

Under the able direction of Robert Pyle, the boys in machine shop are learning to build as well as operate intricate machinery. With modern extensive equipment and materials to work with, they have turned out some outstanding pieces of work, among them several arbor presses, power lawnmowers, wood lathes, tool-grinders, fishing rods, and candle holders. Machine Shop, open to anyone 16 or older, is set up to give two years' training preparatory to entering a trade. And certainly from the looks of the finished articles on exhibit, those boys have been industrious this year!

* * * * *

"D.E. Club is helpful to a girl as well as boy, And they tell us that their sponsor is the real McCoy!"

Perry McCoy, that is—and the students have had a thoroughly enjoyable and busy year. Distributive education—for students with jobs—mixed learning with pleasure, and besides attending several conferences, they had countless parties and get-togethers. Officers elected for the year were Gerald Brannon, President; Fred Burnham, Vice-President; Patricia Pryor, Secretary; Don Lewis, Treasurer; and Willa Beth Stasny, Reporter. One of the highlights of the year was the National D.E. convention held at Tulsa on April 17, with a formal dance that night. They also attended the annual D.E.-D.O. banquet at the Youngblood in November.

* * * * *

"With jolly Mr. Henson to guide them through the year, The Physics Club of E.H.S. have many memories dear."

Among the memories, of course, will be the marvelous demonstrations they witnessed with the chemistry classes when Phillips representatives came out. But what will remain longest in their minds will undoubtedly be the trip they took to Stillwater May 3 to attend the Engineering Show.

* * * * *

"Diversified Occupations is a high-sounding phrase, But what the D.O. Club has learned will certainly amaze!"

Mr. Kennedy's D.O. Club, with officers Duane Lewis, President; Mac Whitsett, Vice-President; Velma Kroecker, Secretary; and Bruce McKee, Reporter, boast of their outstanding member, David Tennison, who was fortunate to win a first place in radio, aptitude and theory, at the annual Field Day at A. and M. They could tell you about the D.E.-D.O. banquet at the Youngblood in November, about the weiner roast at Hel-lums, the chili supper, the fishing trips—and all the things they did during the year that made it so interesting.

* * * * *

"H<sub>2</sub>O is supposed to be water, I guess! (A visit to the chemistry club, no less!)"

Besides their laboratory and text work, the Chemistry Club under Mr. Jack McDaniel, affectionately nicknamed "Mr. Mac," have done various and sundry projects during the year, including growing plants without soil, visiting an Enid ice plant, and an oil refinery, and finally a zinc smelter at Blackwell. But they learned a lot and had a lot of fun—and aiding them throughout the year were their officers, Charles McClure, President; Lawrence Neill, Vice-President; Carole Gungoll, Secretary-Treasurer; and Claude Turner, Program Chairman.

* * * * *

"Sh-b-b-b there are geni at work! At the door to Delta Theta we pause and lurk."

Delta Theta, sponsored by Miss Florel Helema, is the organization for higher math students to further their knowledge and broaden their interests. Officers elected were Earl Baugher, President; Gene Torbett, Vice-President and President; Ronald Jabara, Secretary; Ray Ruzek, Treasurer; Nancy Tindle, Reporter; Robert Quinn, Vice-President, and John Jarboe, Treasurer. At their meetings various students would give talks on fields in math, and interesting discussions were held.

and John Dykes, appeared on the scene and accused Shirley of breaking into their house and stealing the watch they had bought for Jack's graduation present. Shirley was hopelessly lost with no alibi, but Jack came in at just the right time to explain what had happened. He took the watch, sold it, and bought a suit with long pants to wear to the prom. Everyone was happy, and it was certain that Shirley and Jack would be the best looking couple at the dance.

The entire group did a swell job and is to be highly complimented on the show they gave. Meme Cromwell and Nancy Wagner, who served as prompters, were left almost without a job the night of the show, but they were nice to have on hand with a forgotten line at rehearsals.

"We Shook the Family Tree" was certainly to be added to the long list of successes Hudson Wilcox had directed during his teaching career at E.H.S.

Girls' State

morning. That was pretty sad—and we have to admit there were tears in our eyes when we said goodbye to our wonderful friends and the grand times we had had. They announced the representatives to Girls' Nation, presented each girl with her Girls' State certificate, and suddenly the week was over! But out of the 316 girls who attended, we know personally of five girls who will never forget the fun they had and the immeasurable store of knowledge they acquired."

Boys' State

Two Enid fellows ended up in state offices, Rodney Holcomb in the Senate and Ronald Carlberg in the House of Representatives. All the other delegates from EHS were appointed to city positions ranging from Sanitation Officer to the Commissioner of Streets and Alleys.

The rest of the time the legislature met, bills were passed, and laws were made. It was really fun, watching to see what new rulings might be made, and seeing just what the fellows were "learning by doing."

Finally Friday night rolled around, and it was time for the event everyone had been talking about all week. The citizens of Boys' State took a bus ride, complete with police escort, to Chickasha for the annual Girls' State-Boys' State Ball. The fellows were all glad to see the girls again after a week without them, but at the same time, they were a little downhearted because the next morning was the time set for the test over what they had learned.

Yes, they all really dreaded that test, probably just because it was a test, but they found it wasn't so bad after all. It was more of a quiz over some of the things they had known all along but had been reminded of in the lectures.

Everyone felt pretty good because the test really was a "snap," but the gay spirits disappeared when the cars came to take the kids home. Everyone was sorry to bid farewell to a happy week at Oklahoma Boys' State.

ful Plainsmen." But Enid soon perished the thought as they blinked the Comets 4-0 behind White's and Fishinghawk's 3-hit chore. White was going strong and in no danger but developed a kink in his arm and stepped aside in favor of "Injun Joe." Jim Hurd and Ripper Radcliff powered the Enid hitting attack with 2 for 3 each.

Up to this time Enid had won 12 of 13 games and stood firmly on the conference roof with a 9-1 record. But disaster appeared at this point in the person of the Norman Tigers, who, for the second time stopped the Plainsmen with a 6-game win streak and came out with a 6-4 win. Jerry Haskins started and was relieved by Joe Fishinghawk, Enid High's Kim Konstaty, 7 walks, a hit batter, a miscue, and 6 hits proved the Plainsmen's undoing. Burdick who had 3 for 4, cracked a home run in the 5th inning in a game attempt to put Enid back in the game. Enid lost more than a game when star shortstop Jim Hurd broke a leg and was put out of action for the rest of the season.

The Plainsmen entered in the University of Oklahoma Tournament and in their first trial they jumped the Putnam City Pirates for a 7-6 victory. White's 4-hitter was almost in vain as the Plainsmen committed 4 bobbles afield but finally managed to salvage the game. Jake struck out 11 men while Weber added 2 hits in three trips to the cause.

Friday morning at 8:30 the "Hawkeye team" took on McAlester. Haskins and Sittle of McAlester engaged in a red-hot pitching duel for 5 innings. In the sixth both teams scored a run and finally in the bottom half of the seventh with two away, Haskins singled into right center field to score Jones with the winning run. Haskins held McAlester to 2 hits and struck out 8 while Jones collected 2 of Enid's 4 hits.

For their third engagement at the tournament the Plainsmen took on their old enemies, the Central Cardinals, and with Fishinghawk on the mound, they were stopped 9-5. Behind 5-3 in the third inning the Plainsmen scored one in the fourth and another in the fifth to knot the count at 5-5. In the seventh Rip Radcliff led off with a single. He was followed by Tom Manuel and Jim Bray who repeated his performance and Jones who doubled. Marvin Kline, who was doing a bang-up job trying to replace Jim Hurd, drove a ball to the outfield where an error was made permitting the Enidites to empty the sacks. Fishinghawk struck out 11 while the lumber department was led by Radcliff, Manuel, Weber, Jones and Kline with 2 hits each.

In the championship game it was Enid and Lawton fighting it out for the crown. Aubrey Bristow started for Enid, but with shaky support he was soon charged with 3 runs and pulled in favor of White. "Jake" took over and pitched one of the best games of his high school career, striking out 10 of the 15 men to face him. Behind 3-0 in the third inning the Plainsmen went evensteven at 3-all in the sixth. Sophomore DeRoose Raymond doubled in the ninth and on 2 straight sacrifices he crossed the plate with the winning run. For the Plainsmen it was 4 runs on 6 hits with 4 errors. For Lawton it was 3 runs on 7 hits and 3 errors.

Next for Coach Provost's team was the Regional Tournament. Enid breezed by their first two opponents, Alva by a 10-0 score and Woodward by 8-3.

The Alva game was an abbreviated 5 inning affair because under tournament rules a 10-run lead in the fifth is the end of the game. Fishinghawk held them to 3 hits and struck out 9. Bray and Jones each homered for Enid.

Woodward provided more of a game, and it was 7 full innings before Enid was declared winner by an 8-3 margin. Bristow was the Enid hurler, and Bray and Burdick supplied the power with 3 and 2 hits respectively.

Along about now, Enid had just built up a 6-game winning streak and according to plan it was time for a loss and not being one to trifle with fate the Plainsmen came out on the short end of a 3-1 count in a game with the Stillwater Boomers. This loss, Enid's third, was the most disastrous since it took them out of the State Championship race. The game, however, was nicely played and turned out to be a pitchers' duel between White and Garrett of Stillwater. Jake gave up 2 hits, one a double and the other a triple and struck out 15 men. Garrett also was stingy with the base blows allowing the Plainsmen but 2 scratch hits.

Although already in a position to at least tie for the Mid-State crown, the Plainsmen journeyed to Central of O.C. to settle once and for all their right to the title. The Plainsmen broke the game wide open in the second when with one away Tom Manuel singled, Jim Bray went down swinging, and then the fireworks started. Successive singles by Gene Torbett, Bert Weber, Jerry Haskins, and Evert Burdick provided Haskins with a 4-run lead to protect. And protect it he did as 7 Cardinals went down by the strikeout route, and only 4 connecting for base hits. Six Enid miscues kept Haskins in trouble, but he always had enough in the tight spots. Gene Torbett and Bert Weber led the Plainsmen at bat in their last game win 2 for 4 each. Thus the Enidites ended conference play with a 10-2 record and the championship.

This game also brought the curtain down on the season's end. The Plainsmen squad can now sit back and, with fond memories, boast how they won the Mid-State and University of Oklahoma Tournament titles and had, in the eyes of so many, one of the very best teams in the state.

Track

Enid finished 3rd with 24 points in the Regional Track Meet at Tonkawa. The meet, won by Stillwater, was held Saturday, April 28. This meet qualified the Plainsmen for six events in the state meet at Norman on the 5th. Steve Champlin won 1st in the shot and smashed the previous record by a good 2 feet. He also won a 2nd in the discus throw. Bill Cobb narrowly missed a record with his first in the 440-yard dash while Richard Massey tied for 3rd in the 220-dash. The mile relay team consisting of Dykes, Maupin, Sturdevant, and Cobb placed 2nd, and Massey, J. Sturdevant, Dykes, and Sloan, finished 3rd in the 880-yard relay.

In summing up this year's track season, we might say that Coach Stroup was looking toward the future when Enid High School might once again rule supreme in Oklahoma track circles.

in a team match by a score of 11½ to 6½. On May 6 a return match was played with Ponca City on the latter's home course. This time the Wildcats were the victors. The Ponca City team was thought by many persons to have one of the superior teams of this Northwest sector.

On Friday, April 27, the mid-state schools journeyed to Enid for the Mid-State conference tournament. The Enid delegation in this tournament was Moyers, Havenstrite, Goltry, and David Selby. The team finished second in this tournament which was a good showing as all the Oklahoma City teams were entered. Richard Havenstrite led the Enid golfers in this tournament with a 36-hole total of 144. Max Moyers was close behind.

Then on May 2 and 3 the Plainsmen journeyed to Oklahoma City to compete in the State High School Tournament. This was held at the Lincoln Park Course in Oklahoma City. After the first day of play, Max Moyers took over the third place slot. The other Plainsmen were farther down in the ranks. Following the second day's grueling 36-hole grind, the Plainsmen, led by Max Moyers in fourth place, finished sixth in the meet. This was, however, a good showing, when you take into consideration that this is the first year that there has been serious effort to succeed in golf.

The travelling squad at the close of the season was composed of Max Moyers, Richard Havenstrite, Buddy Goltry, and David Selby. Out of the eighteen hopefuls who reported for the team at the opening of the season, only nine finished the season. These nine were all good golfers; of them only three were Seniors. The Seniors on the team were Max Moyers, LeRoy Coppock, and John Jarboe. The Juniors include Dick Havenstrite, Bud Miller, and Bobby Schultz. The rest of the team is composed of Sophomore boys, which makes the future bright for Enid High School in the state golf circles. These boys are Dick Champlin, Jim Barnes, David Selby, Buddy Goltry, and Bobby Schultz.

In summing up this year's team we might say in deepest sincerity that Enid High School is truly proud of the team which Paul Geymann produced in his first year as coach.

DID YOU EVER BAIL OUT A BOAT WITH AN EYEDROPPER?

You can't bail water fast enough with an eyedropper to prevent a boat from sinking— and even the best heating equipment, improperly installed, could prove just as futile.

Whether building or remodeling it is important that you choose adequately sized heating equipment of the best type to conform to the design, size and arrangement of your home. And it is equally important that this equipment be properly installed. So for your comfort, convenience and satisfaction be sure that your gas heating equipment is installed by a competent heating engineer or contractor.
